NAPANEE, ONT., CANADA—FRIDAY, 1

OUR CANDIDATE

A HOME BOY WITH A CLEAN REPUTATION AND NATIONAL PROMINENCE

Lennox and Addington has in Edward W. Grange a candidate for Parliament of whom the county might well be proud. To the people of his home town he needs no introduction. The grandson of William Grange, the first white child born in Napanee, his name and his family carry a county-wide reputation for integrity and honesty. His boyhood and school days were passed in Napanee and the graduates of the Napanee Collegiate Institute scattered throughout the county know the reputation for leadership and popularity he established there. After graduating from the University of Toronto he entered journalistic life in which he has been engaged ever since. Meanwhile he has kept up a close association with his home town, spending considerable time each year here, and regarding Napanee always as "home."

In the past this riding has had some big men as its representatives. Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Richard Cartwright gave to it a national prominence. Since then the people of Lennox and Addington know whether or not the voice of the riding has been expressed forcibly and well in Parliament.

What may be expected of Mr. Grange if he is elected to Parliament as the representative of Lennox and Addington, as he will be, may be gathered from the following comments of newspapers throughout Canada in regard to his candidacy:

OTTAWA FREE PRESS.

Mr. E. W. Grange, the well-known Ottawa editorial staff representative of The Toronto Globe, has been unanimously selected as the Liberal standard-bearer in Lennox and Addington. Mr. Grange is unusually well equipped for a seat in the Dominion House of Commons. Starting with an university education, he has climbed up the newspaper ladder until to-day he occupies one of the highest positions in Canadian journalism. Day in and day out Mr. Grange has for years kept closely in touch with the administration mill at Ottawa. It would be hard to find any man better informed upon Canadian Federal affairs. He is one who has been behind the scenes for so long that it is hard to realize that he is yet a very young man; but of this it is certain, if he is elected Lennox and Addington will have what it has not had for many moons, a representative whose influence in the House will be far-reaching and who will bring to bear upon public questions knowledge and experience that will be invaluable. Mr. Grange has many friends at Ottawa who will watch his political career with more than ordinary interest. He will have the good wishes even of those who are politically opposed to him.

OTTAWA CITIZEN

Mr. Grange has earned the distinction of being the leading member of the Press Gallery and as such has been high in the confidence of the party at the Capital.

UTICA GLOBE

Lennox and Addington has been Conservative for a considerable time, but the Liberals propose entering the forthcoming political fight with an enthusiastic determination to win and redeem the constituency. Honesty, economy and clean statesmanship in the administration of national affairs is the Liberal watchword of the riding, and plans have been laid by the Liberal executive for an effective and thorough local organization of their forces.

In the new candidate they have one of the ablest and brightest newspaper men in Canada, one who is thoroughly well informed on all public questions, and who possesses an intimate knowledge of the political history of the country and the men who govern Canada. He was born at Napanee some 30 years ago and graduated with honors from the Collegiate Institute in his native place and also from Victoria University, Toronto, where he had a distinguished scholastic career, taking high honors in both modern languages and history. After graduation he entered the field of journalism and was for a time connected with the editorial staffs of the Toronto News and the Mail and Empire, previous to accepting a position with the Toronto Globe, the leading organ of the Liberal party in Canada. In that year he came to Ottawa as its parliamentary representative and since has acted in that capacity as well as being local Ottawa correspondent for the Halifax Chronicle, the St. John Telegraph, and the Standard, of London, England, and other papers. He was secretary of the Parliamentary Press Gallery for three years and he was its president also for two years, 1913-14. He easily stands in the first rank among Canadian newspaper men and his splendid political reports from the Press Gallery are perhaps the most widely read in the Dominion.

Mr. Grange is entering political life at the personal request of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Liberal leader, and upon pressing and repeated representations from the leading Liberals of Lennox and Addington, where his family has resided for nearly a century. He has accepted the nomination of his home riding, not as a political partisan, but as a young Canadian Liberal anxious and willing to do his part towards elevating the moral standards of political life in this country. He earnestly believes that the things for which Liberalism stand were never of more vital interest to Canadians than at the present moment.

The Liberals of Lennox and Addington could not have secured a better or an abler young Canadian to uphold their banner in that riding. Although the fight will no doubt be a hard one, the friends of Mr. Grange predict that he will be able to carry it to triumph and victory.

The new Liberal candidate in Lennox and Addington is very well known personally in the capital and has hosts of friends here, being a member of the Rideau Club and also of the Rivermead Golf Club. He has frequently been offered during the last three years important editorial positions on leading city newspapers but he has declined them, preferring to continue his political work at Ottawa.

MONTREAL JOURNAL OF COMMERCE.

Mr. E. W. Grange, the Ottawa correspondent for the Journal of Commerce and the Toronto Globe, has been nominated as Liberal candidate for the Federal House for Lennox and Addington. For the last eight years he has been parliamentary correspondent of the latter paper and has done excellent work. Mr. Grange is an unusually well qualified newspaper man and enjoys to a marked extent the confidence not only of his press associates, but of members of both sides of Parliament.

HALIFAX CHRONICLE

Mr. E. W. Grange, Ottawa correspondent of the Morning Chronicle

and the Toronto Globe, has been nominated as the Liberal candidate for the Federal House for Lennox and Addington. The readers of the Morning Chronicle will join with us in wishing him a triumphant success at the polls. He will be an ornament of the House of Commons.

VANCOUVER JOURNAL

E. W. Grange, parliamentary correspondent of the Toronto Globe, has been nominated by the Liberals in Napanee to seek election in Lennox and Addington constituency. Grange is well-known and well liked all over Ontario, and it is generally believed he will win.

FOREST MILLS.

The farmers are all very busy ploughing.

The revival services are well attended here.

A few from here are back north hunting. Some returning say the Deer is very plentiful.

Mr. Archie Cook has returned from Bath after two weeks' visit with his sister.

Mr. Willie Gray spent Sunday at home.

Word has been received here the Pte. John Scott is dangerously wounded. We hope for a speedy recovery.

Mr. Silas Storrington will have a sale on Wednesday next, the 21st, selling his entire stock.

Mr. Frank Perry is on the sick list.

For chapped hands and rough skin there is nothing quite so good as "Walladerina." For sale only at WALLACE'S Drug Store Limited....

TAMWORTH.

Our Village has been quite lively this week owing to parties applying for Exemptions under the Service Act. A great many of our young men have cold feet as they give very poor excuses in order to stay at home. I think one man's sons are as good as another's, and every young man who is not needed on the farm should go, he would if he possessed the right spirit. We also had a lively day trying a few cases in connection with the breaking of the Ontario Liquor Act. Most of the cases fell through, there were no convictions.

The Presbyterian Church will hold their anniversary on Monday, 19th Nov. Tea will be served in the Town Hall and afterwards addresses will be in the church. Tickets 40c. each.

The farmers are very busy at the ploughing, as the past month was so wet very little ploughing could be done, and now the frost is coming and the season may be short. Many have not got their potatoes out. Some report they are frozen in the ground.

The Ladies' of Christ Church Guild will hold a sale of work on Saturday, December 1st, 1917, in Town Hall, from 10 o'clock a.m. until p.m. A 25c. Hot Lunch will be served at noon. All donations will be thankfully received.

Mr. E. W. Grange, Ottawa correspondent of the Morning Chronicle

The MINISTER OF FINANCE offers for Public Subscription

Canada's Victory Loan

Issue of

$150,000,000 5½% Gold Bonds

Bearing interest from December 1st, 1917, and offered in three maturities, the choice of which is optional with the subscriber, as follows:

5 year Bonds due December 1st, 1922
10 year Bonds due December 1st, 1927
20 year Bonds due December 1st, 1937

This Loan is authorized under Act of the Parliament of Canada, and both principal and interest are a charge upon the Consolidated Revenue Fund. The amount of this issue is $150,000,000, exclusive of the amount (if any) paid by the surrender of bonds of previous issues. The Minister of Finance however, reserves the right to allot the whole or any part of the amount subscribed in excess of $150,000,000.

The Proceeds of this Loan will be used for War purposes only, and will be spent wholly in Canada.

Principal and Interest payable in Gold
Denominations: $50, $100, $500 and $1,000

Subscriptions must be in sums of $50 or multiples thereof.

Principal payable without charge at the Office of the Minister of Finance and Receiver General at Ottawa, or at the Office of the Assistant Receiver General at Halifax, St. John, Charlottetown, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Victoria.

Interest payable, without charge, half-yearly, June 1st and December 1st, at any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank.

Bearer or Registered Bonds

Bonds may be registered as to principal or as to principal and interest. Scrip certificates, non-negotiable, or payable to bearer, in accordance with the choice of the applicant for registered or bearer bonds, will be issued after allotment in exchange for provisional receipts. When these scrip certificates have been paid in full, and payment endorsed thereon by the bank receiving the money they may be exchanged for bonds, when prepared, with coupons attached, payable to bearer, or registered as to principal, or for fully registered bonds when prepared, without coupons, in accordance with the application.

Delivery of interim certificates and of definitive bonds will be made through the Chartered Banks.

Bearer bonds with coupons will be issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500, and $1,000, and may be registered as to principal only. Fully registered bonds, the interest on which is paid direct to the owner by Government cheque, will be issued in denominations of $1,000, $5,000, or any authorized multiple of $5,000.

Subject to the payment of 25 cents for each new bond issued, holders of fully registered bonds without coupons, will have the right to convert into bonds of the denomination of $1,000 with coupons, and holders of bonds with coupons will have the right to convert into fully registered bonds of authorized denominations without coupons, at any time, on application to the Minister of Finance.

Surrender of Bonds

Holders of Dominion of Canada Debenture Stock, due October 1st, 1919, and bonds of the three preceding Dominion of Canada War Loan Issues, have the privilege of surrendering their bonds in part payment for subscriptions to bonds of this issue, under the following conditions:—

Debenture Stock, due October 1st, 1919, at Par and Accrued Interest.
War Loan Bonds, due December 1st, 1925, at 97½ and Accrued Interest.
(The above will be accepted in part payment for bonds of any of the three maturities of this Issue)
War Loan Bonds, due October 1st, 1931, at 97½ and Accrued Interest.
War Loan Bonds, due March 1st, 1937, at 96 and Accrued Interest.
(These will be accepted in part payment for bonds of the 1937 maturity ONLY of this Issue.)

Bonds of the various maturities of this issue will, in the event of future issues of like maturity, or longer, made by the Government, other than issues made abroad, be accepted at par and accrued interest, as the equivalent of cash for the purpose of subscription to such issues.

Issue Price Par

Free from taxes—including any income tax—imposed in pursuance of legislation enacted by the Parliament of Canada.

Payment to be made as follows:

100% on December 1st, 1917	20% on March 1st, 1918
10% on January 2nd, 1918	20% on April 1st, 1918
20% on February 1st, 1918	20% on May 1st, 1918

A full half year's interest will be paid on 1st June, 1918.

The Bonds therefore give a net interest yield to the investor of about:

5.61% on the 20 year Bonds
5.68% on the 10 year Bonds
5.81% on the 5 year Bonds

All payments are to be made to a Chartered Bank for the credit of the Minister of Finance. Failure to pay any instalment when due will render previous payments liable to forfeiture, and the allotment to cancellation. Subscriptions accompanied by a deposit of 10% of the amount subscribed, must be forwarded through the medium of a Chartered Bank. Any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank will forward subscriptions and issue provisional receipts.

In case of partial allotments the surplus deposit will be applied toward payment of the amount due on the January instalment.

Subscriptions may be paid in full on January 2nd, 1918, or on any instalment due date thereafter under discount at the rate of 5½% per annum. Under this provision payments of the balance of subscriptions may be made as follows:

If paid on January 2nd, 1918, at the rate of 99.10795 per $100.
If paid on February 1st, 1918, at the rate of 99.46959 per $100.
If paid on March 1st, 1918, at the rate of 99.72274 per $100.
If paid on April 1st, 1918, at the rate of 99.90959 per $100.

Forms of application may be obtained from any branch in Canada of any Chartered Bank, or from any Victory Loan Committee, or member thereof. The books of the Loan will be kept at the Department of Finance, Ottawa. Applications will be made in due course for the listing of this issue on the Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges.

Subscription Lists will close on or before December 1st, 1917.

HOG PRODUCTION CAMPAIGN

The cry has come from the Allies for more food. The armies are urgently in need of larger supplies of bacon. For these reasons the Government of Canada is putting on a special campaign for greater Hog Production. The campaign is not to be limited to farmers alone. The appeal is also made to people in villages, towns and cities to keep and feed at least one hog. In Germany the urban population fed 4,000,000 extra pigs in one year, as a result of an appeal from their government. Canadians can, and will, do even better.

Messrs. Warner and Foster are two very busy men buying and shipping cattle and potatoes. Reuben Garrison confines himself strictly to hog buying. Messrs. Burgess and Wilson have shipped from here quite a lot of beans to New Brunswick, paying $6.50 a bushel for the same. Hay is selling here at $8 a ton. A carload of potatoes was bought here for shipment at $1.25 a bag of ninety pounds.

Rev. Mr. Sharp is holding special services here, and great interest is being taken in these meetings. Sunday night service was attended by the largest congregation ever seen in Yarker. Mr. Sharp is assisted in his work by two lady singers from Peterboro.

Last week word was received that Earl Galbraith was shot in the shoulder. Monday his parents received word of his death. He was attending Queen's in Kingston, and went overseas about the 25th of April last. He had enlisted in the Ammunition Column, and was while overseas transferred to the infantry. He was a son of Robert Galbraith, whose home is at Varty Lake.

It appears all kinds of plans are being worked to avoid enlistment. This war is of vital interest to every young Canadian boy; men are wanted, and we do not look for slackers in Canadian-born boys.

The C. N. R. will erect a large water tank at the north end of the station. Excavations for piping is now being made from the river to the station.

Yarkerites are buying coal from wherever they can get it, at from $12 to $12.50 per ton.

Dr. Galbraith has sold his residence here to Reuben Garrison. Coming to a back down of the buyer of the Garrison farm, Mr. Garrison could not come, so he re-sold to Forsythe O'Neill, of Moscow, who will move here in the spring.

Arthur Babcock is not expected to recover. His condition is serious.

Hiram Walker, of Wilton, has rented the late A. Baxter's residence and will move to Yarker.

William and John Woodhouse, of Peterboro, were home to see their mother, who is ill.

Chas. Noll, of Oshawa, a former resident of Yarker, spent a short time here.

CUT CANADIANS' THROATS.

Hamilton, Nov. 10.—Word has been received here that the bodies of the following ten men, who enlisted with the 129th County of Wentworth Battalion, had been found on the Lens front with throats cut: Capt. Alex Solomon; Pte. Arthur A. Bland, 633 Spadina avenue, Toronto; Harold Crowe, Alberton; Ptes. Stephen Duckhouse, Puslinch; Richard Fenning, Waterdown; Richard Jones, 1132 Barton street east; Harry Jones, 132 Belmont avenue; W. H. Jones, 333 Emerald street north; N. L. Krick, Glanford Station; Charles F. Kirby, Bartonville. They were captured by the Germans, and when the Canadians made a drive they found the bodies. Pte. Bland is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bland, Napanee.

THE HOG PRODUCTION CAMPAIGN

The cry has come from the Allies for more food. The armies are urgently in need of larger supplies of bacon. For these reasons the Government of Canada is putting on a special campaign for greater Hog Production. The campaign is not to be limited to farmers alone. The appeal is also made to people in villages, towns and cities to keep and feed at least one hog. In Germany the urban population fed 4,000,000 extra pigs in one year, as a result of an appeal from their government. Canadians can, and will, do even better.

The plan of campaign is as follows: The Dominion Minister of Agriculture called a meeting at Ottawa of provincial representatives, and a campaign was outlined to be held in each province. Upon the invitation of Premier Hearst three prominent farmers and the District Representative from Lennox and Addington went to Toronto on Nov. 6th and attended a provincial meeting of prominent Ontario farmers. Mr. C. F. Bailey, Ontario Deputy Minister of Agriculture, asked for a frank discussion from farmers. Mr. Hanna, Food Controller, addressed the meeting and announced two very important things. First, the control of the milling companies, and secondly, the control of the packers. This will ensure farmers that they can buy mill feeds at cost, and the selling price of hogs will not fluctuate so greatly under government control.

The only remaining obstacle to an increased production of hogs is the labor question. Mr. Hanna and others suggested that townspeople feed hogs and that the women and children help in hog feeding on the farm. In a time of national crisis like the present, all must help to feed our soldiers.

A county campaign has been launched to cover Lennox and Addington county. A county meeting of thirty leading farmers has been called to meet in the Agricultural Office, Napanee, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Nov. 17th. At this meeting each township will be organized and a hog survey made of every farm to find out definitely how many brood sows farmers have on hand, increase, if any, and probable number of hogs each farmer will be able to market during the coming year.

Meetings will be held in every township before Dec. 1st. The dates will be announced later and every hog raiser, or probable hog raiser, is requested to attend as a matter of duty. The Victory Loan is important, but it is just as important to see that our soldiers are fed.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM PREMIER HEARST.

Toronto, Nov. 14th, 1917

Mr. G. B. Curran, B.S.A.,
Napanee, Ont.,

Please convey to your local Hog Conference my deep interest and best wishes for success. The urgent call of the Allies for food is another opportunity for Ontario to contribute to the success of the Cause. Ontario has responded nobly to every call in the past, and I am confident will do so to this. I believe you are fully justified on account of the world shortage of meat in emphasizing a strong market outlook which will make hog production profitable, as well as patriotic. If the facts are laid fully before the people I am sure the response will be most satisfactory.

Great Battle Commences on the Piave River

Fate of Italy Will Hang in Balance for the Next Few Days, and the Reorganized Army is Now Facing the foe in an Effort to Check the Invasion.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Italians are holding the Austro-German advance on the Piave line.

Early reports from the front Monday were favorable.

Heavy shelling is in progress along the new front.

The Italians are entrenched behind the west bank of the Piave River and the Austro-German main force now taking the place of the advanced guard on the east bank. The stretch of water between the opposing lines is about half a mile, widening some points to a mile.

The battle-front has two main sectors. The lower extends from Feltrina to the sea and the upper from Feltrina to the sea and the upper from Feltrina to the sea. The Vidua bridge, where the last Italian rearguards crossed the Piave, is half way down the lower sector. Near Feltrina the river turns into the mountains, with a valley and a railway on the west bank.

The enemy is on the west bank this mountain region, and may tempt to come down the valley along the railway. The Italians have no advantage of a river defense at this point, but they have strongly entrenched themselves.

The Paris Matin says it was decided at the conference in Italy that France and Great Britain would increase the armed support already given to Italy, the effort to be shared equally by the two powers. The United States also has been considered, the newspaper says, in planning for future co-operation. The Italian campaign will be directed by the Inter-Allied War Committee. General Foch, the French representative, will remain in Italy for the time being, and will play a preponderant role in the direction of operations, which must take a wide scope.

It had been hoped, the Matin continues, that the Italian withdrawal would end at the Piave River, that is now impossible, inasmuch as the invaders, by debouching from the Trentino, will compel the Italian army to withdraw at least to the Adige line. This plan, which General Foch approves, is to be put into effect, and it is probable that if Italian troops continue to display satisfactory morale, the Adige positions will permit the offering of a stout resistance.

A Havis despatch from Rome reports that large numbers of Austro-German troops and great quantities of war materials continue to arrive in the Trentino and Tyrol.

"To the enemy, who counts less a military victory than on weaken our spirit and on our passivity, us reply with one voice that all ready to give all for victory and honor of Italy."

WIDENED THE SALIENT.

Canadians Advance Half a Mile

Passchendaele.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Driving persistently northward along the Passchendaele Ridge Saturday, Hail troops won all their objectives within four hours, and even pressed beyond them at some points. The attack was made on a front of 2.5 yards (1½ miles) and the German lines were pierced half a mile. The operation widened the salient at Passchendaele and Goeburg considerably, giving the British a firm grip on their recently-acquired position on the northern crest of the ridge.

The Canadian Press correspondent writes: After 12 hours of continuous desperate fighting, Canada star secure on Passchendaele Ridge, having consolidated all the positions gained on the splendid advance Saturday morning, when our infantry stormed its way along the heights another 600 yards, taking Vent Farm, Vindictive Cross Roads, a Exert Farm.

From dawn until dark the salient has re-echoed to the roar of our guns in what has been the most tremendous artillery duel in the history of Canada in Flanders. Two minutes after our advance began the enemy barrage fell and continued from then until 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Every gun which he could employ along the whole front has been directed against our attack.

Following new defensive methods the enemy offered little infantry position to our advance. His lines the forward zone were thinly held, his troops being massed in a line some thousand yards to the rear.

Our right attack went forward practically without opposition. The left enemy parties holding fortified shell-holes offered stouter resistance, but by 8 o'clock we had taken all our objectives.

We demand Macedonia, Dobruja, and Bulgarian territory annexed by the Serbians before the establishment of the present Bulgarian state. These are legitimate aims and we are seeking for the realization of a national union."

ITALIANS MAKE STAND

Great Battle Commences on the Piave River

Italy Will Hang in Balance for the Next Few Days, and the Reorganized Army is Now Facing the Foe in an Effort to Check the Invasion.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Italians are holding the Austro-German advance on the Piave line.

Early reports from the front Monday were favorable.

Heavy shelling is in progress all along the new front.

The Italians are entrenched back the west bank of the Piave River, and the Austro-German main force is now taking the place of the advanced guard on the east bank. The strip of water between the opposing lines about half a mile, widening at some points to a mile.

The battle-front has two main sectors. The lower extends from Feltre to the sea and the upper from Feltre westward. The Vidar bridge, where the last Italian rearguards crossed the Piave, is half way down the river sector. Near Feltre the river runs into the mountains, with a valley and a railway on the west bank. The enemy is on the west bank in a mountain region, and may attempt to come down the valley and along the railway. The Italians have no advantage of a river defence at this point, but they have strong entrenched themselves.

The Paris Matin says it was decided at the conference in Italy that France and Great Britain would increase the armed support already given to Italy, the effort to be shared equally by the two powers. The United States also has been considered, the newspaper says, in planning for future co-operation. The Italian campaign will be directed by the Inter-Allied War Committee. General Foch, the French representative, will remain in Italy for the time being, and will play a preponderant role in the direction of the operations, which must take a wide one.

It had been hoped, the Matin continues, that the Italian withdrawal could end at the Piave River, but at it is now impossible, inasmuch as invaders, by debouching from the Trentino, will compel the Italian army to withdraw at least to the Piave line. This plan, which General Foch approves, is to be put into effect, and it is probable that if the Italian troops continue to display satisfactory morale, the Adige positions will permit the offering of sufficient resistance.

A Havas despatch from Rome reports that large numbers of Austro-German troops and great quantities of war materials continue to arrive at the Trentino and Tyrol.

King Victor Emmanuel has issued a stirring appeal to the nation, saying that the enemy, thanks to an extraordinary combination of circumstances, has been able to concentrate all his efforts against Italy. The Italian army, defeated in every struggle for thirty months, his Majesty declares, obtained numerous German reinforcements.

"Italians, citizens, and soldiers," says the appeal, "be one single army. Every act of cowardice is treachery. Every disorder, every recrimination, treachery.

THE RUSSIAN CRISIS.

It is Believed That the Situation Will Soon Improve.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company sent the following: "After heavy fighting at Moscow, in which there were 700 casualties, the parties came to terms on the basis of the creation of a Socialist Government, including Bolsheviks."

"The Petrograd Railway Union sent an ultimatum to the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates and the Safety of the Country Committee demanding that they effect conciliation by organizing all the democratic power; otherwise the union would call a general strike. The Bolsheviks agreed to this, but the other democratic groups were unwilling to negotiate with the Bolsheviks until they entirely surrendered. Negotiations, however, were resumed, and the railway union deferred the strike for 12 hours.

"The Bolsheviks have abandoned their offensive attitude and now consider themselves in the position of organizers of defence revolutions against the armies of Kerensky, Korniloff and Kaledines."

One of the encouraging signs seen here in to-day's news from Russia is the mention of Prof. Paul N. Milukoff as one of those associated with the new Provisional Government rising at Moscow. Prof. Milukoff, who was Foreign Minister in the original Provisional Government, formed after the overthrow of the Czar, is well known in this country and is regarded as one of the strongest men in Russia.

Confidence is stronger than ever among officials and diplomats that the Bolsheviks soon will be driven out of control at Petrograd, and that in time a Government really representative of Russia's aspirations will take the reins with a firmer grip than the Kerensky regime was able to establish.

It is predicted that while Premier Kerensky will continue to be one of the chief figures in the reorganized Ministry, he will not again exert the almost dictatorial powers he assumed when he became commander-in-chief of the army.

FORETELLS LONG WAR.

British Minister Says It Will Last Until 1920.

PLYMOUTH, England, Nov. 13.—Sir Auckland C. Geddes, Minister of National Service, in a speech here Monday said the people must prepare for a sterner trial than any that had yet been faced.

The war would drift into 1920 and after if the people did not pull themselves together for the mightiest effort in the nation's history.

"Victory," said Sir Auckland, depended upon a great uprush of human energy, generated by the people in their determination to win.

The Government should not be asked to drive them. To maintain armies in the field, the speaker concluded, it would be necessary to make further heavy calls on the manpower of the country. All physically fit men previously exempted were required for service unless they were employed in connection with munitions, shipping, agriculture, or other vital industries.

TURKS NOW IN PANIC

Flee Before the British Troops in Palestine.

General Allenby is Now Only Forty Miles From Jerusalem, Having Advanced 14 Miles in Three Days—Casualties of the Foe Reported to Be Very Heavy.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The British forces in Palestine, continuing their northward drive along the Mediterranean coast, have scored an advance of fourteen miles in three days. This is revealed in an official report from General Allenby Sunday night, which says the left wing of his army has reached the village of Esdud (Ancient Ashdod). On November 7 the British were reported to have reached the Wadi Hesi. Esdud is fourteen miles north of the Wadi Hesi, which in turn is eleven miles north of Gaza, the most important place yet captured by the British in their advance on Jerusalem.

The work of the Royal Flying Corps and the British cavalry in the latest action has been brilliant in the extreme, General Allenby's statement reveals. The mounted troops are covering a battlefield of no less extent than 600 square miles and are making huge captures of prisoners and guns and war material day after day. On Friday last alone, the British Commander reports, more than 700 captives were brought in, and five howitzers and eight field guns were captured. The British airmen the same day inflicted enormous damage on Turkish railway communications and rolling stock north of the battle line.

The text of the announcement reads:

"General Allenby reports that the advance of his forces continued yesterday, and that the left wing was in the neighborhood of Esdud (ancient Ashdod), 14 miles north of the Wadi Hesi. The enemy's rearguard had occupied a line along the northern branch of the Wadi Sukereir.

"The Royal Flying Corps the same day bombed the junction station at Wadi Surar. There was a large amount of rolling stock in the station, and on this and on the station buildings several direct hits were observed to cause considerable damage.

"Our mounted troops have reported the following captures for Friday: Five 5.9 inch howitzers, eight field guns, ten officers, 700 other ranks and much transport."

ISSUES SECOND MANIFESTO.

Sir Robert Borden Asks Support for Government.

OTTAWA, Nov. 13.—Sir Robert Borden has issued a second manifesto to the Canadian people, setting forth his reasons for believing that they should give their support to the new Administration. The second manifesto reaffirms the chief planks in the Union Government platform announced by the Prime Minister on October 18, emphasizing more particularly what he conceives to be the duty of the Government and the people in regard to the prosecution of the war and the solution of the various problems arising out of the world struggle.

"The Government," says Sir Robert, "realizes that in this national emergency there is imperative necessity for fulfillment of its policies with the least possible delay. It pledges itself to prosecute the war

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—There was able to concentrate all his efforts against Italy. The Austrian army, defeated in every battle for thirty months, his Majesty declares, obtained numerous German reinforcements. "Italians, citizens, and soldiers," says the appeal, "be one single army. Every act of cowardice is treachery, every disorder, every recrimination, treachery. "To the enemy, who counts less on military victory than on weakening its spirit and on our passivity, let us reply with one voice that all are ready to give all for victory and the honor of Italy."

WIDENED THE SALIENT.

Canadians Advance Half a Mile at Passchendaele.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Driving restlessly northward along the Passchendaele Ridge Saturday, Haig's troops won all their objectives within four hours, and even pressed beyond them at some points. The attack was made on a front of 2,500 yards (1½ miles) and the German lines were pierced half a mile. The operation widened the salient about Passchendaele and Goeburg considerably, giving the British a firm grip on their recently-acquired positions in the northern crest of the ridge. The Canadian Press correspondent writes: After 12 hours of continuous desperate fighting, Canada stands out on Passchendaele Ridge, having consolidated all the positions gained on the splendid advance Saturday morning, when our infantry earned its way along the heights for another 600 yards, taking Venture Farm, Vindictive Cross Roads, and Tert Farm.

From dawn until dark the salient is re-echoed to the roar of our guns what has been the most tremendous artillery duel in the history of Canada in Flanders. Two minutes after our advance began the enemy's barrage fell and continued from then until 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Every gun which he could employ against the whole front has been directed against our attack.

Following new defensive methods the enemy offered little infantry opposition to our advance. His lines in the forward zone were thinly held, and troops were massed in a line one thousand yards to the rear. Our right attack went forward practically without opposition. On the left enemy parties holding fortified shell-holes offered stouter resistance, but by 8 o'clock we had won all our objectives.

Bulgarian War Aims.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 13.—The Bulgarian Sobranje has adjourned until December 1st after a speech by Premier Radoslavoff, according to a despatch from Sofia. The Premier is noted as having said: "Bulgaria's war aims are known. They provide for a union of Bulgarians within our historical frontiers. We demand Macedonia, Dobruja, and Bulgarian territory annexed by the Serbians before the establishment of the present Bulgarian state. These are legitimate aims and we are seeking only the realization of a national ideal."

armies in the field, the speaker concluded, it would be necessary to make further heavy calls on the manpower of the country. All physically fit men previously exempted were required for service unless they were employed in connection with munitions, shipping, agriculture, or other vital industries.

Licenses for Margarine.

OTTAWA, Nov. 13.—The announcement was made Monday night by the Food Controller that applications for licenses to manufacture oleomargarine in Canada or to import it should be made to the office of the Veterinary Director-General, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Further regulations in regard to the manufacture and importation of oleomargarine are being prepared by officials of the Department of Agriculture and representatives of the Food Controller. Until these are adopted it is impossible to set a date when the licenses will be operative, but notice will be given in the newspapers.

Japanese Uneasy.

TOKIO, Nov. 13.—The disquieting Russian news has caused uneasiness in Tokio and is reflected by the falling exchanges and other barometers of opinion. Premier Terauchi cancelled his engagement for the military manoeuvres. Government action in accord with the desires of the Allies is generally anticipated. The press is silent on the numerous cabled opinions from London and the continental press regarding the military assistance of Japan, and is largely absorbed in discussions of the new agreement with China.

Ex-Queen of Hawaii Dead.

HONOLULU, Nov. 13.—Queen Liliuokalani, of Hawaii, died Sunday morning. Her death had been expected for several days.

The former queen had been in bad health for many months. A week ago she began to fail rapidly, and last Thursday physicians announced that the end was near. Preparations have been made for the body to lie in state with a territorial guard of honor.

American Troops Arriving.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 13.—Gen. Pershing said to the correspondents Sunday: "Troops and supplies are arriving in increasing numbers." Thanks to the French, British, and American navies, he continued, the submarine to date had not claimed the life of a single American soldier on the troopships bound for France.

Plants Were Wrecked.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 13.—Gus Vollrath, a former foreman at the Olympic Steel Works, was arrested Monday charged with causing two explosions at the Olympic plant and one in the Aurora Foundry Company's works here. Both plants have Government contracts. Officials assert Vollrath is a German agent.

manifesto reaffirms the chief plank in the Union Government platform announced by the Prime Minister on October 18, emphasizing more particularly what he conceives to be the duty of the Government and the people in regard to the prosecution of the war and the solution of the various problems arising out of the world struggle.

"The Government," says Sir Robert, "realizes that in this national emergency there is imperative necessity for fulfillment of its policies with the least possible delay. It pledges itself to prosecute the war with ceaseless vigor, to strive for national unity, to administer the public departments with economy and efficiency, to devise measures of taxation which will regard social justice, and to neglect nothing that may be required to sustain the soldiers on service or to comfort those of their households whom they have left behind."

The Prime Minister defines the Military Service Act and strongly asserts the necessity for its introduction. He declares it to be "a democratic measure, calling the rich as well as the poor." He says that "it is eminently fair as between the Provinces and as between those portions of our people who are of different racial origins, because it pays no attention whatever to Provincial boundaries or racial groupings, but calls up all young Canadians of the same circumstances wherever they may live."

Referring to the decision of the Government to abolish the patronage evil, Sir Robert says:

"It is believed that a Government derived from both political parties and strengthened by special representation of agriculture and organized labor, can act with greater freedom and independences than in a Government which holds office under the old conditions."

"Firmly convinced," says Sir Robert, in closing his manifesto, "that these objects can best be achieved by a Government representing all parties, classes, creeds, and interests, I appeal with confidence on its behalf for the sympathy and support of the Canadian people."

Alberta's Wool.

Alberta's total wool clip of 2,086,663 pounds is valued at $1,181,628.29 by James A. Hill, of the Dominion live stock branch, who has just completed a census of the wool shipped from the province this season.

Average price to grower is 60c per pound.

The highest price for any individual grade was 67.39c per pound, bid on a lot of fine medium combing at a Toronto sale. This year's clip represents more money than two average clips would in ordinary times.

Mr. Hill states that the industry is on a sound footing all over the province. Many of the range sheep are pasturing on forest reserves in the mountains, though some of them, including part of a band owned by Ray Knight, have been brought back to the prairie owing to the damage done to feed by forest fires.

Apples in Nova Scotia.

There are said to be about 2,000,000 apple trees in Nova Scotia, yielding 500,000 to 1,500,000 barrels a year, with a recent average of 800,000 barrels. Experts say the province should produce 10,000,000 barrels yearly.

CATTLE MARKETS.

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—There was an almost record run of live stock out at the Union Yards yesterday, within a shade of 6,000 head of cattle, together with fairly heavy receipts of sheep, lambs, calves, and hogs. That the market held steady so strong for the better class of stuff in the face of the enormous receipts was striking evidence of the strong undertone prevailing. And the quality of the offering was, in the opinion of practically every commission house, of the most common kind, few good butcher steers and heifers being on sale. The demand for this class was very strong, with prices 25c better.

The receipts for the day all told were 303 cars, consisting of 5,889 cattle, 262 calves, 1,429 hogs, and 3,326 sheep and lambs.

EAST BUFFALO LIVE STOCK.

Veals—Receipts, 900. Active and easier; $7 to $14.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 11,200. Active demand; heavy, $10 to $18.15; mixed, $17.90 to $18; yorkers, $17.50 to $17.90; light yorkers, $17.25 to $17.90; pigs, $17 to $17.25; roughs, $17.50 to $16.75; stags, $14 to $15. Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 7000. Lambs easier at $12 to $17; others unchanged.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—Cattle—Receipts 23,000. Market firm. Beefsteers, $6.75 to $16.80; western steers, $5.85 to $13.40; stockers and feeders, $5.65 to $11.50; cows and heifers, $4.50 to $11.75; calves, $6.75 to $13.

Hogs—Receipts 40,000. Market strong. Light, $16.65 to $17.50; mixed, $16.75 to $17.60; heavy, $16.70 to $17.60; rough, $16.70 to $16.90; pigs, $15.25 to $16.75; bulk of sales, $17.10 to $17.50.

Sheep—Receipts 20,000. Market firm. Lambs, native, $12 to $16.65.

British Bombs Fire Docks at Bruges.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—A large fire was caused among the docks at Bruges on Friday night by bombs dropped by British aviators in another of the series of raids over Belgium. The admiralty Sunday made the following report on the expedition:

"On the night of November 9, a bombing raid was carried out by the Royal Naval Air Service on the following military objectives:

St. Denis Westrem, the Bruges docks. Large quantities of explosives were dropped with good results. A large fire was caused at the latter place.

"All our machines returned safely."

Canadian Editor Tries Again.

"I learn that the National News is about to be revived," says the Liverpool Post correspondent. "It presents an example of audacity, for the running of a Sunday paper in war time is no light task. When it ended in June, possibly those who had appreciated its rather brilliant standard of writing hardly believed in its promised resurrection. The Canadian editor, Mr. De Beck, has plenty of persistent enterprise behind his gold pincenez and under his high forehead." This enterprising Canadian is endeavoring to give a Sunday paper to London.

A Western Anniversary

SEPTEMBER 24 is the oldest anniversary in the Red River calendar. For, one hundred and seventy-nine years on that day the Sieur de La Verendrye and his voyageurs paddled up the river and landed at the mouth of the Assiniboine, first white man to tread the Western prairies. In his report to the Marquis de Beauharnois, Governor of New France, La Verendrye says: 'I went to the fork of the Assiniboiles (Assiniboine) on the 24th, where I found ten Cree huts and two war chiefs who expected me, with a quantity of meat, having been notified that I was coming. They begged me to agree to remain, to have the pleasure of seeing us and of giving us something to eat. I agreed, being happy to speak to them.'

La Verendrye remained at 'the fork' two days before continuing his journey west, but left with the Crees one of his men whom they had urged to stay. He describes the Assiniboine as flowing from the west, 'winding about greatly, wide, with a strong current and many sand bars. It is lined with fine woods on the banks, and the prairies extend beyond sight, through whose extent are many cattle and deer. I chose to go by land, following the prairie with the useless people in the canoes.' He travelled across country to avoid the increasing distance involved by the windings of the river, but he followed its general direction. And when he came to the place where his canoes could go no further owing to low water, he halted and there built Fort La Reine on the ground where Portage La Prairie now stands. He then proceeded to the Indian Mandan settlements on the Missouri, returning early in February to the fort, where he spent the rest of the winter. The small fort named Fort Rouge at the mouth of the Assiniboine, whose exact site is controversial, was built by his eldest son.

La Verendrye belongs to the high company of adventurers who, in answer to the irresistible call, have gone out on the deep or into the wilderness, not knowing whither they went. His mind was on the Western Sea. Though he went out under the nominal aegis of the French Governor, he had practically to create the means for his expedition; and this is why trade with the Indians was essential to his success. He gave to the enterprise not only himself and his private means, but his three sons. Before reaching the Red River of the North, his many and heavy trials had included the death of his nephew, upon whom he depended as second in command, and the massacre of his son and of the missionary who accompanied the expedition. He suffered, and his cause suffered, from the malignity of enemies at court. Yet he was preparing for a new expedition to carry his explorations farther west when he died suddenly at Montreal in his sixty-third year. It was not given to him to find the Western Sea, nor even to see the 'Shining Mountains'—as the Indians named the Rockies—but his two sons were the first white men to travel as far as the Foothills.

We can picture this noble Frenchman landing down there at the confluence of the rivers now between two cities; we can see him in friendly talk with the eager hospitable Indians as he looks out over this goodly land under a warm, blue September sky. Some vision must have come to him, some haunting sound of peoples treading westward in future years. If not on that day or on that journey, then surely in those last days when preparation for another inland voyage west was stopped, when he put out to sea for the better country. For this discoverer and man, we are told, was a man of spiritual faith.

La Verendrye and Selkirk are two outstanding figures in earliest history of that west which Manitoba, the one a discoverer, other a colonizer. Both ought to be commemorated in monuments worthy the men, worthy the best art, worthy the best ideals of the Province.

Safeguard Lake of Woods.

On the boundary between United States and Canada, at midway between the coasts, lies little known Lake of the Woods, of the most picturesque bodies of water in America and one of its economic importance to the United States and Canada. Because various problems pertaining to the lake, its level have arisen, an international joint commission was appointed some years ago, and recently, a extensive investigation and hearing has reported to the two governments concerned.

This report recommends, among other things, that a certain water level be maintained. This level established with due regard to water power which the commission recognized as the dominant interest of the region. The recommendation provide for the utilization of lake, and others, as immense reservoirs for power purposes.

While this will damage some land it is purposed to compensate those who suffer. It is also purposed also to safeguard fully navigation and the fisheries.—Popular chances.

Something New.

Many advertisers are constantly trying to think up "Something New" or "Different" and the results are startling to be sure, but certainly not convincing nor conducive to increase in the business of the advertiser.

The craze for originality is a mistake. People do not care for stunts or mental gymnastics. They do want to know the facts in regard to your business and whether you can offer better prices or better quality than your competitors.

Tell the facts in a straightforward, unassuming manner. You will gain the confidence of your patrons, and you will find that advertising pays abundantly.

OUR ARTISTS ABROAD

MANY HAVE WON FAME IN OTHER LANDS.

Some of the Painters and Sculptors Born in Canada Who Have Gone to England, France, and the United States, and There Won Reputations in the Great Galleries of the World.

THE life of an artist in Canada 20 years ago was something like that of Gilbert's policeman, "not a happy one"; it is not even affluent to-day, but a generation ago so little was the public appreciation of Canadian art that a goodly number of those painters and sculptors who possessed ambition as well as talent were forced to seek "fresh fields and pastures new" in order to find the sinews of their endeavor to work out their artistic salvation. It is not a state of affairs to be recalled with much pride, for if there is one thing a new country needs and which should be State-aided from the first, it is its native art, for the necessarily intensive pursuit of commercial gain gets from art at once an antidote and an aid; an antidote to turn thought from commercialism to the beauties and truths of form and color and an aid in directing design toward what is useful and beautiful instead of what is hideous and accidental.

In Australia to-day in spite of a progressive spirit regarding art which leaves Canada somewhat behind, Australian artists cannot live at home but must seek the wider field of European appreciation; so in Canada outside of a few portrait painters, commercial art workers, and art teachers it is extremely difficult for an artist of even recognized ability to live and to feel himself free to express the truth that is in him. So it comes about that a formidable list of Canadian artists are living abroad, where although they are often not known to be Canadians, they are appreciated and so are better off than at home, where, although they were certainly known to be Canadians, they equally certainly were not appreciated. In only one respect is Canada better off than Australia in her failure to support her own artists; there is nowhere nearer to Australia than Europe, while Canada adjoins the United States and the connection with home has not, in a majority of cases, been so completely severed that it could not be renewed.

The list of Canadian artists who are working abroad naturally divides itself into two groups, those who have made their name in the United States and those who have done the same in England, or on the continent. The first list is the greater, and it may be well to begin with it and to place at its head Horatio Walker, whose landscapes have brought him great honor among American painters. Horatio Walker was born at Listowel, in Ontario, and after getting as much art training in Toronto as was available in those days he went to New York, where, with great natural talent and capacity for draftsmanship, he has progressed and been honored with many awards and memberships, including that of the National Academy of Design. Horatio Walker's connection with Canada has never been completely severed, for he has resided a large part of each year at his home

A Woman's Problem

How to Feel Well During Middle Life Told by Three Women Who Learned from Experience.

The Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Read these letters:—

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I started the Change of Life five years ago. I always had a headache and backache with bearing down pains and I would have heat flashes very bad at times with dizzy spells and nervous feelings. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new person and am in better health and no more troubled with the aches and pains I had before I took your wonderful remedy. I recommend it to my friends for I cannot praise it enough."—MRS. MARGARET GRASSMAN, 759 N. Ringgold St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Beverly, Mass.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for nervousness and dyspepsia, when I was going through the Change of Life. I found it very helpful and I have always spoken of it to other women who suffer as I did and have had them try it and they also have received good results from it."—MRS. GEORGE A. DUNBAR, 17 Roundy St., Beverly, Mass.

Erie, Pa.—"I was in poor health when the Change of Life started with me and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, or I think I should not have got over it as easy as I did. Even now if I do not feel good I take the Compound and it restores me in a short time. I will praise your remedies to every woman for it may help them as it has me."—MRS. E. KISSLING, 931 East 24th St., Erie, Pa.

No other medicine has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women may receive free and helpful advice by writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Such letters are received and answered by women only and held in strict confidence.

under William Chase, she went to Europe, and finally settled down to her art at Newlyn, in Cornwall. Mark Eastlake was born at Douglas, Ont., and took much the same course as Mrs. Forbes, studying in New York before going to Paris, and to the Herkomer School at Bushey.

Among etchers are Caroline and Frank Armington, and Donald Shaw MacLaughlin, all of them born in Canada, but now working abroad and achieving distinction in their particular métier.

Charles Paul Gruppe must not be forgotten among painters. He was born at Picton, Ont., and after studying in Holland, is now living in New York, and is a regular exhibitor of work partaking of something of the Dutch manner.

Petroleum in Canada.

According to Victor Ross in his book "Petroleum in Canada," commercial petroleum was brought into existence in Canada in 1858 by J. H. Williams, of Hamilton, who was attracted by what was known as the "gum beds" of Oil Springs. Because he was familiar with the discovery of petroleum in the old world, Mr. Williams set about extracting what he believed to be the same sort of naphtha as that produced by the wells in Baku. His first effort took the form of a retort and the gum was boiled. This primitive attempt at distillation produced a comparatively light, iridescent liquid. In the hope that he might obtain greater quantities by digging beneath the surface of the gum beds, he excavated a well and found that Horatio Walker's connection with Canada has never been completely severed, for he has resided a large part of each year at his home on the Island of Orleans in the St. Lawrence near Quebec. It is on the Island of Orleans that the relics of the Breton peasantry still cling to ancient customs and habits and the last of the shepherds tend their flocks, crook in hand, as they have done since time immemorial. It is the simplicity and old-worldliness of this life that have inspired so many of Horatio Walker's studies, and in all his work, whether reaching to greater or lesser heights, there is the painstaking effort to tell the story of the simple lives of the tillers of the soil.

Then there is Ernest Lawson, who, with his subtly conceived impressions of winter snows or pale spring buds, has won for himself an important place in American landscape painting. Ernest Lawson was born at Halifax, N.S., and has settled down to his life work in New York and there are few important art exhibitions in the country in which he is not represented by some characteristic picture. Ernest Lawson has also been honored by membership in the National Academy of Design.

Arthur Crisp, of a younger generation, who is rapidly becoming known as a mural decorator and painter of decorative pictures, is a Canadian born at Hamilton, Ont. Mr. Crisp has achieved success also with a series of pictures and drawings of the ballet, such as his "L'Encre," purchased by the National Gallery of Canada, while at the recent Architectural League exhibition in New York he carried off most of the honors with a very strong exhibit of decorative work.

Wyatt Eaton (1849-1896) is perhaps best known for his portraits of the great American poets which he made for the Century Magazine, but it is not so generally known that he is a Canadian, born at Phillipsburg, in Quebec. Wyatt Eaton was remarkable both as a painter and a draftsman; he was instrumental in forming the American Art Association, which later became the Society of American Artists, and he wrote his recollections of J. F. Millet, an intimate friend of his early years.

James W. Morrice, whose work has had a great influence upon contemporary French painting, is a Canadian, and was born at Montreal. After studying at the Julian Academy, and under the last of the great Barbizon painters, Henri Harpignies, Mr. Morrice settled down in Paris, and has followed a course which, while it is sufficiently individual, was set in its outlines by the idealism of Whistler and those who would render nature by the severe elimination of everything extraneous to the general impression or indicative of elaboration. Mr. Morrice is a member of the International Society in London.

Two women painters now claim attention: Elizabeth Adela Stanhope Forbes and Mary Eastlake. Mrs. Forbes' work is so well known as to require little description; it is better known than the fact that she is a Canadian, born at Kingston, Ont. After studying at the Art Students' League in New York,

New York before going to Paris, and to the Herkomer School at Bushey.

Among etchers are Caroline and Frank Armstrong, and Donald Shaw MacLaughlan, all of them born in Canada, but now working abroad and achieving distinction in their particular metier.

Charles Paul Gruppe must not be forgotten among painters. He was born at Picton, Ont., and after studying in Holland, is now living in New York, and is a regular exhibitor of work partaking of something of the Dutch manner.

Sculpture is well represented by R. Tait Mackenzie and A. Phimister Proctor, N.A. The former, whose athletic studies as well as more formal statuary work are bringing him well-merited recognition, was born at Almonte, in Ontario, and now holds, with a recent absence for war work in England, the position of director of physical culture at the University of Pennsylvania. Phimister Proctor was also born in Ontario at the small town of Busanque, and after study in New York and Paris has settled down in the United States where he has become a member of the National Academy and other institutions in recognition of his fine animal sculpture, so expressive of vigor and action.

Some eight or nine years ago a number of secessionists from the Ontario Society of Artists banded themselves into the Canadian Art Club and made one of their aims the renewal of the relations of these artists with the country of their birth by their membership in the club and the presence of their work at its exhibitions. It was not until the Canadian public began to see the work of Horatio Walker, Ernest Lawson, J. W. Morrice, Phimister Proctor, and others at the exhibitions of the Canadian Art Club that it realized with any force that these artists whom other countries had so delighted to honor were Canadians. These exhibitions were undoubtedly a stimulus to Canadian art, and there is every hope that the connection of these wandering artists with the land of their birth, which in the case of Horatio Walker and J. Wilson Morrice has been strengthened by honorary membership in the Royal Canadian Academy, will not only not be allowed to lapse again but will be solidified to the mutual advantage of those who have fought a good fight for art in their own country, to those who have been successful abroad and would wish to be so at home, and to Canada, who needs them all for her glorification.

Coal in the West.

The Canadian Scientific and Industrial Research Commission is arranging for the rental from the United States of a lignite testing plant for use in Western Canada to test some of the immense undeveloped low-grade coal-bearing areas of the Prairie Provinces. A proposal was made to the Government for the purchase by Canada of a complete plant for experimental government operation of selected areas thought to be commercially feasible, but which private enterprise will not touch owing to the uncertainty as to economic development. This proposal of the commission was, however, after consideration by the Government, turned down for this year. The Commission will now carry on the work through a rented American plant. The investigations of the Commission during the past point to the feasibility of solving the fuel problem of the Prairie Provinces by scientific exploitation of the at present latent lignite resources of the West.

tracted by what was known as the "gum beds" of Oil Springs. Because he was familiar with the discovery of petroleum in the old world, Mr. Williams set about extracting what he believed to be the same sort of naphtha as that produced by the wells in Baku. His first effort took the form of a retort and the gum was boiled. This primitive attempt at distillation produced a comparatively light, iridescent liquid. In the hope that he might obtain greater quantities by digging beneath the surface of the gum beds, he excavated a well, and found that the deeper he penetrated the earth the greater the yield. This was really the first oil well in America and was dug a year before Drake's well in Pennsylvania, 1859, although it did not pierce the limestone.

The experiment attracted many persons to the field, and ten or twelve shallow wells were opened at Black Creek, in the vicinity of Oil Springs. It was not until February, 1862, however, that what may be termed the first real oil well was drilled. This was the achievement of James Shaw, a poor photographer, who had lived in the vicinity for many years, and had been a close observer of the methods of the prospectors. With the old-fashioned spring pole worked by foot-power Shaw punched the cap of the upper vein of oil rock at a depth of 165 feet at Oil Springs. The result was a well that gushed thousands of gallons an hour and flowed for a comparatively long period.

Shaw received no permanent benefit from his discovery and is said to have died in poverty. He was offered $25,000 in gold for his property when the well began to flow, but declined all proposals and lived to see the day when it dwindled down to a "pumper" of a few barrels a day.

Fruit for the Soldiers.

Interesting figures as to the amount of fruit to be sent to Canada's convalescent soldiers in the hospitals overseas, by the Ontario Government, are given in the latest issue of The Fruit Branch Circular.

Despite the great shortage of all fruits in Ontario, the Government has decided to send this year, about 2,000,000 pounds, of which 800,000 pounds will consist of canned fruits and jams. The consignment is being put up at the Vineland Experiment Station. Peaches will form the heaviest pack, with a considerable quantity of plums and pears as well.

This shipment will be about 25 per cent. in excess of last year's and is due to the increased needs in Great Britain and France.

The remainder of the shipment, some 1,200,000 pounds, or 27,000 boxes, will be of apples and will be largely put up by the Fruit Branch in Eastern Ontario.

Owing to the embargo on all fresh fruit, these shipments will very likely constitute the only Canadian fruit to be sent overseas.

A Matter of Choice

If you are a lover of six-cylinder performance, or if your choice is a car equipped with a tried and true four-cylinder engine, you will do well to look into the merits of the Overland Model Eighty-Five.

This is the popular model that is built in both motor designs—either a Four or a Six.

Both are big, comfortable cars. The Four has a wheelbase of 112 inches—the Six 116 inches.

Both are beauties in appearance and in action. Cantilever rear springs and big roomy seats afford solid riding comfort for five people.

If you have decided to invest in a moderately priced, real family car—one that will stand up under steady service—drop in and ask for a demonstration of this Model Eighty-Five.

HISTORICAL MEETING.

Prof. John F. MacDonald, of Queen's University gave an interesting and unique lecture before the Historical Society on Friday evening last. The lecture was on "War Cartoons." By way of introduction the lecturer gave a history of the cartoon idea down to the present time, and then with about eighty well-selected slides, the crystallized opinions of many phases of the war were brought vividly before the audience. The cartoons were taken from various magazines and papers and were not confined to the Allies, but were taken from practically all the nations at war. One of the most interesting features of the lecture was the manner in which pictures from many lands all revealed in a very marked degree the same national characteristics of their authors, showing the spirit of the nation rather than the spirit of any individual. The bitter hatred of Germany for Britain and things British could be seen on every German cartoon. Their colossal barefaced deception was never more clearly shown than when a responsible German newspaper appropriated a famous French cartoon and gave it a German setting and application. The Dutch hatred of war, their denunciation of German methods, were pictured in all their native vigor and powerful nakedness by the world-famed cartoons of Raemakers. The French were revealed, calm, determined and consecrated to the high task of saving France. The Italians were shown fighting to prevent the German pig gobbling all Italy, while Britain with her cubs stood calm, dignified and grinning defiant, but lacking that touch of personal hatred so noticeable among the Germans. These more serious aspects, lightened throughout by touches of wit and humor, made the lecture interesting and most instructive.

LIEUT. GEORGE GRANGE LEAVES.

Lieut. George R. Grange, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Grange, one of Napanee's most popular young men left on Thursday morning for Ottawa en route for England as an officer of the Royal Naval Flying Corps. Lieut. Grange volunteered for the mechanical transport service over two years ago and was granted a commission. Since then owing the scarcity of trained officers in Canada in this branch of the service he has been retained at Kingston by headquarters as transport officer for No. 2 Military Division. A year ago he applied for transfer to the Royal Naval Flying Corps, a more dangerous but a more thrilling service. He will train at an aviation camp near London.

Keeping Hogs.

The Provincial authorities are starting a campaign to increase hog production in Ontario. In England every householder in towns and villages is allowed to keep hogs during the war. As the law stands at present in Ontario the residents of towns and villages cannot keep hogs on an ordinary town or village lot, much as they would like to do so. The town By-law prohibits it and a man keeping a hog might be prosecuted by his neighbors for harboring a nuisance, while the town authorities do not wish to prosecute anyone who keeps a hog, the medical health officer will insist that all hog pens be kept reasonably clean and sanitary so as not to be a nuisance to the neighbors. In a short time the Provincial Authorities may change the regulations allowing hogs to be kept in towns and villages during the period of the war.

OLD NAPANEE BOY KILLED.

Word was received in Napanee on Tuesday by relatives that Lieut. Douglas N. McIntyre, formerly deputy minister of fisheries for British Columbia, had been killed in action in the Passchendaele battle. The late Lieut. McIntyre was a son of the Rev. C. M. McIntyre, now of Toronto, a retired Methodist minister well-known to residents of Napanee where he held a pastorate in Trinity Methodist church for four years. Mr. D. M. McIntyre, chairman of the Ontario Railway Commission, is an uncle. The late Lieut. McIntyre enlisted as a private resigning from the deputy ministry to enter the ranks. A little later he was given a commission with the British Columbia "Bantams" and left for England last winter with his battalion. He was formerly a widely known and brilliant newspaper man, having been Telegraph Editor of the Montreal Star and News Editor of the Victoria Colonist. He was deputy minister of fisheries for British Columbia for some six years and was recognized as a very able and energetic public official. He was an honor graduate of Queen's University and for years held the track record for the 220 yards run. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and one young daughter. His only brother is a lieutenant in the same battalion. Misses Helen and Isabella McIntyre, of Kingston, are aunts.

Public Poultry Meeting.

The members of the Napanee Poultry Association have decided to hold four free Public Poultry Meetings during the coming winter. The first meeting of the series is to be held in the Town Hall, Napanee, on Friday evening, Nov. 23rd, at 7.30 o'clock. Mr. George Robertson, head of the Poultry Department at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, is to lecture on "Utility Poultry Keeping." Mr. Robertson will tell how to feed poultry for eggs at a profit, and will also show how to pick out the layers, demonstrating with live birds. Mr. Robertson will teach those present

YES! LIFT A CORN

OFF WITHOUT PAI

Cincinnati authority tells how to lift a corn or callus so it lifts off with fingers.

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoe that nearly killed you before, says a Cincinnati authority, because a drop of freezone applied directly or tender, aching corn or callus, stops at once and soon the corn hardened callus loosens so it can be lifted out, root and all, without pain.

A small bottle of freezone costs very little at any drug store, but will positively take off every hard or corn or callus. This should be true as it is inexpensive and is said not irritate the surrounding skin.

If your druggist hasn't any freezone tell him to get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house. It's fine stuff and acts like a charm every time.

NOTES IN BELGIAN RELIEF WORK

The Convener of the Belgian Relief Committee desires that an explanation be given the public of the manner in which funds contributed to this purpose reach the people whom they are intended, as it would seem that some contributors do not feel sure that these moneys reach their objective. Donations are sent Monsieur Goor, Consul-General Belgium at Ottawa, he forwards them to the Belgian Government, which then sends the fund on to the Belgian Minister in Holland—where it reaches large members of Belgian children, sent in relays of 15,000 or to spend 6 weeks there, to be clothed and otherwise cared for, to prevent if possible, the ravages of tuberculosis, etc., to which they are constantly exposed in Belgium. In the rest, the Belgian minister in Holland has means of forwarding into occupied territory all that is contributed for these unhappy victims of the war in Belgium.

As a proof that all are not doubtful on this subject, the Belgian Relief Committee desire to acknowledge with sincere gratitude, the handsome donation of $50.00 from His Honor Judge Madden.

A fine box valued at $30.00 was shipped last Saturday to Mrs. Art Pepler, Convener Belgian Relief Committee, Toronto, containing among other things a beautiful quilt warmed lined, several large, heavy shawls capable of being used for bedding, about half a dozen fine coats and many other useful articles, for all of which the Committee wish to thank the various donors very sincerely.

BUY VICTORY WAR BONDS

Shall we compromise the issue P

SHALL we say to a nation that has set at naught every standard of righteousness on which our civilization depends "Come back as you are and shake hands?"

SHALL we condone the murder of harmless men, the rape of innocent women and the maiming of helpless children by accepting into the family of nations, unchastened, a people capable of such abomi-nations?

SHALL we ever hail as friend a Government whose god is Force and whose jest is charity, whose ideals utterly defy the mandate "Love thy neighbor as thyself," and whose minions laugh to scorn the weakness known as mercy—and give sanction to the spread of such ideals?

MILLIONS of men have answered "Never" with their lives. Thouands of young Canadians—your boys and ours—stand ready to give the same pledge with theirs.

ONE CREED or the other will survive—the success of the VICTORY
WAR LOAN will show our choice.

OUR BOYS may survive. The bonds we buy will help decide that question also. And we are backward in the loaning of our money at high interest with the best security on earth in such a cause!

Patrick, Napanee; Mrs. Bensley, Markworth, Ont., and Mrs. Amanda Over, Violet, Ont. The awarding of these cards to these wonderful and instant workers was a very great assurance both to us and to them, as the cards are regarded as heir-looms by the respective families. A second distribution will be made later. Remember our Euchre party takes place is Friday evening at the Oddfellows all in the Harshaw Block. Come and enjoy a pleasant evening, and a good game of Euchre. See another luncheon for announcement re new war pictures at "Wonderland" under our auspices.
The work-room is open each Thursday afternoon, we are glad to see all helpers and workers.

STELLA.

The annual fish of November ball, held under the auspices of Derry Lodge No. 2, P.A.P.B., in Victoria Hall on Friday evening last was a decided success. The hall was well filled, and excellent music was furnished by F. Salsbury of the city, assisted by Miss Bessie McDonald and John Glenn. An excellent supper was provided by Mrs. F. Henderson.

J. A. Tugwell is building a new cow stable.

B. Pearsoll, Picton, and F. Laidley, Kingston, were over the island last week buying cattle, hogs, etc.

The steamer Rideau Queen did not make her trip on Monday as expected. The island people have been put to considerable inconvenience several times this season by the above named steamer. Several farmers came out to the wharf on Monday. Some had produce, and the boat did not put in an appearance. This is only one instance. The managers of the steamboat company should inform the wharfingers if the steamer is unable to come on the set day.

W. H. Preston and Wesley Brown have had telephones put in their residences.

Miss Elizabeth Reid and D. G. Brown were quietly married in Kingston on Tuesday last. They are taking up residence on the groom's farm on the south shore.

Visitors: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Glenn, Detroit, Mich., at W. Glenn's, sr.; Miss Anna Filson, Buffalo, N.Y., at D. Caughey, jr.'s; Miss G. E. Preston, Clifton Springs, N.Y., at W. H. Preston's; Miss S. Tugwell, also of Clifton Springs, at S. K. Tugwell's; Miss E. Pollie, who has been spending the summer here, has returned to the city.

MRS. GREEN GAINS TWENTY POUNDS

Was Almost Nervous Wreck When She Began Taking Tanlac.

"I have actually gained twenty pounds by taking Tanlac and my friends and neighbors seem amazed at the wonderful change in my condition," was the remarkable statement made by Mrs. William Green of 141 Hunter Street, Hamilton, recently. Mrs. Green has lived in Hamilton and vicinity all her life and has a wide circle of friends who rejoice with her over the return of her health.

"I had suffered from stomach trouble until I was almost a nervous wreck," continued Mrs. Green. "For two solid years I was unable to do one thing about the house and my stomach became so upset that I couldn't retain the medicines prescribed for me. For four months about the only thing I could eat was milk and eggs. I was so weak I could hardly walk from one chair to another and for months I don't suppose I slept more than two hours a night. I spent eleven months under two specialists who finally said they could do me no good. My case seemed to be hopeless, an operation failed to help me and I was told that nothing more could be done for me."

"Of course I was discouraged, despondent and almost hopeless and now it seems hard for me to believe myself what a wonderful change has come over me since I began taking Tanlac. If anyone could feel like a new person I do and when I told one of the physicians who treated me what I was taking he said it certainly had done me a lot of good and advised me to keep it up. I have a splendid appetite now and nothing I eat gives me any trouble. My nerves are in good shape and I can sleep all night and on until nine o'clock in the morning. I can do almost everything there is to do about the house now, all my despondent feelings are gone and everything seems so different. I am now on my fourth bottle of Tanlac and can heartily recommend it to everybody."

Tanlac is sold in Napanee at WAL-LACE'S Drug Store.

A NEW PRIVILEGE

Finance Minister Announces that All Victory Bonds may be Registered.

The following announcement has been made from Ottawa:—The Finance minister of Canada has issued a new instruction in connection with the Victory Bonds, which will be of much benefit and importance to many small investors. He has decided to grant the privilege of the registration of all bonds, that is to say, that bonds of all denominations, including the $50 bond, may be registered as to principal and as to principal and interest.

In previous loans the privilege of registration was necessarily confined to bonds of the larger denomination, such as $1,000 bonds or more. Bonds of lower denominations were issued as bearer bonds, with coupons attached, and while carrying equal benefits as to principal and interest were liable to being lost by the owners. Under the privilege now given by the Finance Minister, the buyer of any bond (whatever the denomination), may have it registered, in which case the interest will be paid by cheque, and the bond, if lost, may be replaced after proper notice has been given.

LETTERS OF NUN SUING FOR ASSAULT ARE READ IN COURT

Kingston, Nov. 14th.—Sister M. Basil, who is suing Archbishop Spratt and others for $29,000 for assault and false arrest, completed her evidence to-day and underwent cross-examination which failed to shatter her story in any material point. Several letters in which she had complained to the archbishop were read in court. Rev. Father M. chaplain of St. Mary's-on-the-Lake Orphanage, also testified.

At the morning session Sister Basil asked how often she had seen Phalen, who is alleged to have pronounced her insane, replied that she had seen him twice in 13 or 14 years. One of these occasions was about months before the night of the abduction when he had a conversation with her. The other was on the day of night she was abducted. On her return to the Orphanage, following abduction, the plaintiff said that she sat for five nights in an easy chair in the office, being in fear of her life and liberty. On Oct. 23rd, 1916, she was persuaded to move to a convent of order at Belleville. Here she was first treated with great kindness, but later was subjected to a series of persecutions and her letters were intercepted with.

After 14 weeks of persecution plaintiff left the convent and went to Ottawa, where she threw herself at the feet of the papal delegate. He visited her to report to Archbishop Spratt, and under date of May 22 1917, she wrote his grace, notifying him that she had left the convent because of the persecution to which she had been subjected and taken up residence in a private home. On May 29th the archbishop wrote the plaintiff ordering her to return to the convent at once.

On the same day she wrote his grace, refusing to return to the convent because of the persecution to which she had been subjected.

UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION

This completed plaintiff's story and Lally McArthur, Toronto, counsel for the defence, began cross-examination. To him the witness denied having any trouble in Brockville, Kingston, Perth, Smith's Falls, here she had been stationed at various times. As if she had gone on a hunger strike the House of Providence, Kingston, she declared emphatically that she had not nor had she had any contact with Father Duffus, concerning the confessional. At Daysburg, Alta., she had some trouble, over operation. She returned in 1914 to the House of Providence, Kingston. She soon saw that she had incurred the displeasure of the Mother Superior. Realizing that she was being ignored, she asked the archbishop to send her somewhere else, and was again sent to Smith's Falls.

She had plenty of trouble to do over the fact that she was disinclined against in the matter of having anything to do. Up to this time she had been a very good friend of Archbishop Spratt, wrote to him constantly.

On January 15th, 1914, she wrote the archbishop asking for a dispensation of her vows because of her unhappiness in the House of Providence in Kingston. The archbishop refused her request and advised her to go to Smith's Falls. She told him that she did not want to go there, as she

Under the privilege now given by the Finance Minister, the buyer of any bond (whatever the denomination), may have it registered, in which case the interest will be paid by cheque, and the bond, if lost, may be replaced after proper evidence has been shown.

It is believed that this privilege will be greatly appreciated by many thousands of small investors, who will thus be assured of the absolute safety of their investment even against fire or carelessness or any other accidental cause of loss. This improvement in the issue will involve extra work upon the Department of Finance, but Sir Thomas White considers that its benefits will more than offset the labor involved.

We are greatly indebted to McIntosh Bros. for financial assistance; to Mr. Charles Parks, Hay Bay, $5.00 and to the Woman's Guild of St. Paul's Church, Sandhurst, $15.00.

In addition to the monthly subscriptions for the Prisoners-of-war Fund, Mrs. Wartman, Convener, reports an additional $5.00 from Mrs. F. F. Miller and $5.00 from Mr. Casey Denison, to be applied on the cost of a Christmas dinner for three Prisoners.

A letter from headquarters, acknowledging cheque for $1000 sent last week, says "In handing you herewith official receipt, I beg to thank you and the members of your Branch for this very generous addition to our resources, which I need hardly say, will be of material assistance to us."

Most pathetic was the news that reached us this week that two more Napanee boys have paid the supreme sacrifice. It makes us realize, perhaps to a greater extent, our individual responsibility, and as this war is the greatest of all others, so must the self-sacrifice be greater.

Let there be no relaxation of our former efforts to supply the many needs, which cheer and comfort the sick and wounded. We invite all to the room on Saturday, ready to help with the work planned for the afternoon.

Australian Casualties.

The Australian casualties from the beginning of the war up to May 21, 1917, were 60,793, according to a statement issued by the Defense Department. They were divided as follows: Dead, 24,106; wounded, 31,585; missing, 5,102. It was explained that the men listed as wounded did not include those who had gone back to the trenches.

send her somewhere else, and was again sent to Smith's Falls.

She had plenty of trouble the over the fact that she was discriminated against in the matter of not having anything to do. Up to this time she had been a very good friend of Archbishop Spratt, and wrote to him constantly.

The archbishop refused her request and advised her to go to Smith's Falls. She told him that she did not want to go there, as she was afraid she would be discriminated against.

PLAINTIFF'S LETTER READ.

A number of letters which the plaintiff had written Archbishop Spratt in 1914 and 1915 while she was at Smith's Falls, were read. Some of the letters she said that she was in a desperate state of mind and desired to get away. In one she said she wanted to go out into the world. In March, 1915, she came Mary's - on the Lake Orphanage where she alleges she was assaulted and from which she was abducted. September 14th, 1916. She had no ties at the orphanage and had no status of recognition.

Asked what she meant by recognition, she replied that she was given no work to do. About the first of November, 1915, she took charge of Father Mea's rooms. Her duty was to keep his rooms and to give him his meals. Along the first of August, 1916, she got a typewriter, object being to prepare a report which she purposed to send to Rome regarding combinations at the orphanage. She explained that all reports sent to Rome must be typewritten.

WITH TRAMPS AND IMBECILES

When cross-examination was resumed in the afternoon plaintiff stated that during the time she was at orphanage from November, 1915, October, 1916, the lady visitors representing the Catholic institutions of the city did not visit the little boys' dormitories or the dark underground passage where the boys of school spent their days.

Tramps and grown up imbeciles were kept at the institution. Older children, she said, were thrown in contact with them.

Asked if her appeal to Rome, which she made as "a result of the authorities here taking no action" had been withdrawn, she replied that it had. Father Mulhall was conducting investigation into conditions at orphanage.

Interrogated as to whether she considered herself a member of order of the Sisters of Charity, witness, who is still wearing the garb, answered that she considered her as outside the order and the community.

The witness when questioned if she had any inkling before the alleged assault and abduction that an effort would be made to have her declared sane, replied that Father Mea conveyed a message which she said the archbishop had given him to convey to her to the effect that some of the witnesses would be declared insane. Archbishop subsequently denied having sent such a message.

Mr. McCarthy said he understood that she had given the sisters at various houses with which she had been connected considerable trouble and that it was not an uncommon thing for her to shake her fist in the face of a sister and threaten her. Witness denied this, and said that she had never shaken her fist in the face of any sister.

Mr. Tilley, K. C., counsel for plaintiff, re-examined her. She told him that her complaints had never

LETTERS OF NUN SUIING FOR ASSAULT ARE READ IN COURT

Kingston, Nov. 14th.—Sister Mary Basil, who is suing Archbishop Spratt and others for $29,000 for assault, abduction and false arrest, completed her evidence to-day and underwent a cross-examination which failed to batter her story in any material point. Several letters in which she had complained to the archbishop are read in court. Rev. Father Mea, chaplain of St. Mary's-on-the-Lake orphanage, also testified.

UNDER CROSS EXAMINATION

This completed plaintiff's story, and Lally McArthur, Toronto, chief counsel for the defence, began his cross-examination. To him the witness denied having any trouble at Rockville, Kingston, Perth, and Smith's Falls, where she had been stationed at various times. Asked she had gone on a hunger strike in the House of Providence, Kingston, he declared emphatically that she had not nor had she had any difficulty with Father Duffus, concerning the confessional. ## LEMONS WHITEN AND BEAUTIFY THE SKIN

Make this beauty lotion cheaply for your face, neck, arms and hands.

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whiteners and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It is marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands.

FATHER MEA TESTIFIES.

Father Mea, chaplain of the St. Mary's-on-the-Lake Orphanage, said that when Sister Mary Basil came to the orphanage he noticed in a few days that she was being treated differently from other sisters, in that she had no office or employment. He took the matter up with the archbishop and his grace promised to consult with the mother-general. Sometime later anonymous postcards were being circulated, and the archbishop suspected Sister Mary Basil of being the writer. Witness told Archbishop Spratt that he was convinced of her innocence. His grace was not convinced, however, and said that the cards were evidence of a diseased mind, and told him to tell Sister Mary Basil that she would be placed in an asylum.

Witness conveyed the archbishop's message to the sister, who asked his grace if he had sent such a message. Sometime later witness met the archbishop, who asked him why he had told Sister Mary Basil that she would be placed in an asylum. His grace said that he did not say that the sister would be placed in an asylum, but that she should be placed there.

What's the difference? the witness asked the archbishop.

"A big difference," was the reply. "Lots of people are in the asylum who are not put there by me."

TELLS OF ABDUCTION.

The witness then passed on to speak of the abduction of the plaintiff from the orphanage on the evening of Sept. 14, 1916. He heard some one scream; "Father Mea" and thinking that some sick child was being taken to the hospital, and wanted to see him, he rushed to the door in his bathrobe and slippers. To his consternation he found Sister Mary Basil seated in an automobile. Asked what was meant by this he was told that the sister was being taken to an asylum. He replied that she was not insane and asked Policeman Taylor what his authority was for taking possession of the sister. The officer replied that he was acting on instructions from the archbishop. Father Mea reminded him that the archbishop had no authority to order the arrest of any person.

Despite the witness' protest the automobile was started for the railway station en route to Montreal. A stop was made at the House of Providence but the mother-general stated that the plaintiff was a lunatic, and must be removed to an asylum. On the witness' suggestion the policeman telephoned the archbishop, but his grace replied that he had no further orders to give. Father Mea then remarked to the policeman: "They are all getting under cover and you had better do the same." The officer was not anxious to carry out his part of the contract and finally consented to the sister being returned to the orphanage.

Shortly after the abduction the archbishop called to see Father Mea and asked him what he meant by interfering with his acts of administration.

"Surely" replied the witness, "this abduction was not one of your acts."

His grace told him that he was injuring his future (Father Mea's). The priest replied that his grace need not try to scare or intimidate him. They both might be dead a year, and then what would their future matter?

The archbishop added that Father Mea's friends realized, too, that he was injuring his future. "The trouble with you and my friends," the witness told his grace, "is that you and they are getting information second-hand, while I am getting it first-hand, being on the ground floor."

The witness said he reminded the archbishop that all who had laid hands on Sister Mary Basil were liable to ex-communication. He told his grace that he ought to be thankful for what he had done, for if Sister Mary Basil had been taken to Montreal and the witness had entered habeas corpus proceedings, as he fully proposed doing, it would have been most unpleasant for all those who had been behind the abduction. He told of Sister Mary Basil's removal to the convent at Belleville and said that he had advised her to go there, promising her that if things became unbearable and she found it necessary to enter a civil action he would be on hand to tell the truth and to help her.

TELLS OF ASSAULT.

The witness told of having received a letter from the plaintiff, in which she informed him of an assault that had been made on her in the convent. He went up to investigate and found that the sister had not exaggerated the injuries which she had received. Both her eyes were blackened, one being closed. Her jaw was bruised and the teeth attached to a bridge had been loosened.

Cross-examined by Mr. McCarthy the witness said he had known the plaintiff since 1898 and had always regarded her as a most religious person. She was a woman of strong personality, and objected to yielding blind obedience. Asked what kind of obedience one should yield, the witness replied, rational obedience, not blind obedience."

HAS NO CONFIDENCE IN THE UNION GOVERNMENT.

(From Picton Times.)

To the Editor of The Times: If the Union Government were what it professes to be, it would be the duty of all good and loyal men to support it. But every intelligent man knows that it represents all the evil agencies that has corrupted and debauched and robbed this country during the last six years. For it to prate of honor and duty puts me in mind of Satan rebuking sin. What right has any man to think that the Union Government is better than the Borden Government? The same sinister forces that backed up and controlled the Borden Government, are backing up and controlling the Union Government. The Union Government has the sanction and blessing of Sir Joseph Flavelle, of Sir Thomas White, of Sir Clifford Sifton, and last but not least, Bob Rogers. God pity the people if they have got to put up with a government controlled by these men and their kind. There is no use of disguising the fact that a few unscrupulous men are running Canada. They deny the right of the people to rule. When a policy is brought forward inviting the sending to war of thousands of our boys, it is the title hunters, the millionaires, the profiteers and political adventurers who actually settle it—not the people. The only part the people are allowed to do, is to furnish the cash and the men. Men who 75 per cent. of the people believe should be in the penitentiary have more to say about settling it than whole provinces. That is the sort of thing that the so-called Union Government is trying to perpetuate. Under the sacred name of patriotism it is making an assault upon our liberties; that if successful, would put us in the same class with the Germans or Turks.

In 1911 the Liberal party was bluffed and lied and slandered out of power. The same old tactics are being tried again with this difference: In 1911 it was the Liberals that were disloyal and unpatriotic. Now it is both Grit and Tory, if they refuse to be plundered and robbed of their rights by a Government that owes its existence to the plotting and scheming of office-loving politicians, guided by the Big Interests.

In this election both Liberal and Conservative are in the same boat. And the greatest service we can do the Empire is to defeat this so-called Union Government. Don't be deceived by a name. It's not a Union Government. It's a union of all the forces of mercenary, selfish and ambitious men to exploit Canada for their own especial benefit. CANADIAN.

The map alone would cost as much as the whole charge in most stores. The Family Herald is greatly improved this year and is wonderful value. It is a credit to Canadian Journalism. It should be in every Canadian home at the price offered, $1.25 a year, with the great war map free.

The archbishop subsequently denied ever having sent such a message.

Mr. McCarthy said he understood that she had given the sisters at the various houses with which she had been connected considerable trouble, and that it was not an uncommon thing for her to shake her fist in the face of a sister and threaten her. The witness denied this, and said that she had never shaken her fist in the face of any sister.

Mr. Tilley, K. C., counsel for the plaintiff, re-examined her. She told him that her complaints had never applied that she was not insane and asked Policeman Taylor what his authority was for taking possession of the sister. The officer replied that he was acting on instructions from the archbishop. Father Mea reminded him that the archbishop had no

Necessary Farm Equipment

MORE and more the Ford car is looked upon by progressive farmers as necessary farm equipment, the same as the plow, the hay-rake, the drill, the mower, the harrow and other labor and time-saving machinery.

A farmer with a Ford car can dispense with one or two of his horses and make the trips to town, railway station, creamery, or to the neighbours in one-third the time. In fact there is no farm machine made that will save the busy farmer and his busy wife so much valuable time as a Ford. And it's so easy to take care of—far easier than a horse. No bed to make, or hay and oats to get, no harnessing and unharnessing, and no stables to clean. The Ford practically takes care of itself.

Ask any farmer who owns a Ford if he would ever again try to get along without it. His answer will hasten your decision to own one.

Soldier of Fortune — by Randall Parrish

"Yes. Fasten the door and leave a guard. Stow away the boat. Broussard. Everything ready, captain."

I went down a broad stairway, shining brass rails on either side, which led to a spacious after cabin. A table extended its full length, already set for a meal, and a round faced negro in white serving jacket grinned at me as the men pressed me between them into a narrow passage leading forward. A moment later I was unceremoniously thrust into a small apartment on my right, the ropes about my wrists loosened and the door shut and locked behind me. For perhaps five minutes I lay where I had been so unceremoniously dropped, weakened by loss of blood and dazed by the rapidity of events. I found it hard to adjust my faculties to this new situation, but I thought it might yet be my privilege to foil these villains and rescue Mrs. Henley. It was my belief she was also on board this vessel. I had no reason to assume this except the wording of Broussard's report, which I had over-none, as otherwise it would not have been necessary to post a guard. However, this was clearly no time to experiment, and I was hungry enough to forget all else in the appetizing fragrance of the meal waiting. I felt to eagerly, convinced there was a good cook on board and enjoying every morsel. This did not look as though I was destined to suffer, and merely being confined in these narrow quarters for a few hours was no great hardship. Probably the girl was receiving very similar treatment, and as soon as the Sea Gull made whatever port was aimed at we would both be put ashore and left to proceed as we thought best. These people were lawless enough without doubt—the murders already committed were evidence of that—but all they desired, so far as we were personally concerned, was to get us safely out of the way, where we could no longer interfere with their plans. What those plans might be I could merely conjecture, with little enough to guide my guessing. They might be filibusters connected with some revolution along the Central American coast, smugglers or marauders of even less respectability, using the Henley place for a rendezvous. These fellows were doubtless the ghosts which haunted the place and had given it so uncanny a reputation throughout the neighborhood. They would naturally resent any interference, any change in ownership or control. Possibly if they were thieves, as I more than half suspected, they had lost buried near by and were anxious to get us out of the way long enough to remove it unobserved. This appeared to me as by far the most probable explanation. The door opened again, and the guard stood revealed before me in the glare of light.

"The old man wants you," he explained brusquely, waving his hand aft as though specifying the direction. "Come on, now."

I preceded him along the narrow passage. The cabin was unoccupied, the table swung up against the beams of the upper deck, the heavy chairs moved back, leaving a wide open space. The furnishings were rich, in excellent taste. It was a yachtlike interior. There was but one door, evidence that a single cabin occupied the entire space astern, and I stopped before it, my companion applying his knuckles to the wood, but without removing his watchful eyes from me. A muffled capable of attending to my own affairs. By the way, what part did the girl play in this little conspiracy? Merely a friend of yours who came along for company?"

"Certainly not!" I replied indignantly. "Have you seen her?"

"Not yet. I preferred coming to an understanding with you first."

"A condition you may not find as easy as you anticipate," I retorted, angered at his cool insolence. "If you are Philip Henley, then the lady you are holding prisoner is your wife."

He laughed, leaning back again in his chair.

"Well, hardly. Permit me to state, my dear sir, that I possess no such encumbrance."

"It happens," I contended coldly, "that I have seen the marriage certificate."

"Oh, you have! As much a forgery as some of these other precious documents. You will certainly grant that I ought to know whether I am married or not."

"I made no assertion relative to that."

"What did you assert?"

"That Philip Henley was married and that his wife or widow, as the case may be, is the lady who accompanied me to Carrollton."

CHAPTER XI.

I Change Front.

HE leaned forward, both arms on the desk, his black eyes narrowed into mere slits.

"Oh, I see," finally. "Driven out of one position, like a good general, you have another in reserve. Am I also to understand that you are prepared to submit proof of the death of Philip Henley? By the saints, I am becoming interested."

"Naturally if you claim to be the man. I have not said he was dead, for I do not know. I came down here believing him alive. His wife is almost convinced otherwise. All I am actually certain about now is that you are not the man."

"You are extremely free spoken for a fellow in your condition. You will at least confess that I am master on board this ship, that my word here is law and you are in my power."

"Yes."

"Then why expose yourself and that young woman to unnecessary danger? To be frank, Craig, I sent for you just now in a friendly spirit. You can be decidedly useful to me, and I can afford to pay well for services rendered. Now, wait. Don't break in until I am through. I know who you are and how you originally became involved in this affair. What did Neale and that other fellow, Vail, offer you?"

"Never mind the sum," I said soberly. "I am not altogether mercenary, although I need money. I'll say this, however, and you can take it for what it may be worth. I originally came into this game believing I was doing a kindness to a helpless man who was being defrauded of his rights. There is no necessity of my going into details, but Neale told me an apparently straight story and convinced me my part was a mere form. Later I learned different and promptly quit. I haven't sent in a line of report to my employers."

"What convinced you of the fraud?"

"A conversation with Mrs. Henley."

"Oh, the woman, hey?" his tone again sarcastic. "Good Lord, Craig, don't be a wooden headed fool. This girl is a mere adventuress."

"You claim still to be Henley?" I

THE TONIC THAT BRINGS HEALT

"Fruit-a-tives" Builds Up The Whole System

Those who take "Fruit-a-tives" the first time, are often astonished the way it builds them up and makes them feel better all over. They may take "Fruit-a-tives" for some special disease, as Constipation, Indigestion, Chronic Headaches or Neuralgia, Kidney or Bladder Trouble, Rheumatism or Pain in the Back. And they find when "Fruit-a-tives" has cured the disease, that they feel better a stronger in every way. This is due the wonderful tonic properties of the famous tablets, made from fruit juice. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 2. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

"You'll learn yet what the Sea Gull means you an insult. And I'll get you that some time. You'll learn yet what the Sea Gull is."

"No doubt," I coincided, tired of threats and awakened to the fact that this quarrel was not likely to help chances. "But for a few minutes will be worth your while to listen me. I am not defending this woman from anything but unnecessary suits. If she has deceived me I will find it out. If you are Philip Henley, as you claim to be, you must have evidence to prove it. Convince that her assertions are false and I will not find me unreasonable."

"Gordon Craig, do you mean?"

I turned to her, steeling myself look into her appealing eyes.

"I have been honest with you from the beginning," I interrupted abruptly. "Now, if I discover that your statements are false, the inducements heard. But she was a prisoner, and this vessel would be the most likely place for her to be confined. I sat up, my flesh burning, and stared about. The light shining through the single closed port was dim, convincing me the sun had already set. As I got to my feet I could feel a faint throb of the engine and realized we were moving slowly through the water. The glass of the porthole was thick, but clear. I knelt on the berth and looked out, dimly perceiving the shore line slipping past, with an ever broadening stretch of water intervening. Then I sat down helplessly on the stool and waited for something to occur. Escape was impossible.

The man who appeared to be the chief had said he would turn the girl free in New Orleans, where she could do them no harm. New Orleans, then, was doubtless the port for which we sailed. It was clear they meant no personal harm to her, and they would never have brought me on board alive if they had deemed it necessary to otherwise dispose of me. These considerations were, in the main, reassuring, and as I turned them over in my mind I drifted into better moods. Besides, my head ceased to ache.

It was fully an hour after the coming of darkness before I was disturbed. Then the door opened, and the entering gleam of a light swinging in the passage revealed the grinning negro steward bearing a well-filled tray. This he deposited in the berth, while applying a match to the lamp overhead. I saw no shadow of any guard outside, but the fellow made no effort to close the door, and I did not move, confident he was not alone.

"Say, George, what boat is this?" I asked.

"Mah name is Louis, sah."
"All right, Louis, then; what's the name of this vessel?"

"She am de Sea Gull, an' a mighty fin' boat, sah."

"So I judge. What is she, fruiter or private yacht?"

"I reckon I don't just know," and he grinned.

"Perhaps then you will inform me where we are bound. I suppose you know that?"

"No, sah; de captain he nebber done tol' me, sah, nothin' 'bout his personal plans. All he done said was fer me to hustle sum grub in yere."

The shadow of a man blocked the doorway. He was one of those who had been in the small boat, and I noticed a revolver at his waist.

"That's enough, boy. Come, now, out with you!" he commanded gruffly. "Never you mind the door. I'll attend to that."

He pulled the door to after the retreating form of the negro, and I heard the sharp click of the latch and then his voice, muffled by intervening wood, ordering the steward aft. There was no appearance of any lock on the door. Probably there was stiff as though specifying the direction. "Come on, now."

I preceded him along the narrow passage. The cabin was unoccupied, the table swung up against the beams of the upper deck, the heavy chairs moved back, leaving a wide open space. The furnishings were rich, in excellent taste. It was a yachtlike interior. There was but one door, evidence that a single cabin occupied the entire space astern, and I stopped before it, my companion applying his knuckles to the wood, but without removing his watchful eyes from me. A muffled voice asked who was there, and at the response replied:

"Open the door and show him in, I tellers, and remain where you are within call."

I entered and found myself upon a plain, uncarpeted deck, the white walls and ceiling undecorated. On one side was a double tier of berths, lockers were between the ports, and heavy curtains draped the two windows aft. Opposite the berths was an arm rack, containing a variety of weapons, and the only floor covering was a small rug beneath a desk near the center of the apartment. This latter was littered with papers, among them a map or two, on which courses had been picked. Beyond these all the room contained was a small bookcase, crowded with volumes, and a few chairs, only one upholstered. The only person present occupied this, and was seated at the desk, watching me, a cigarette smoking between his fingers. It was the olive hued man of the cellar, the one I had picked as leader, and his teeth gleamed white in an effort to smile. In spite of his skin and dark eyes, I could not guess at his nationality, but felt an instinctive dislike to him, more deeply rooted than before, now that I comprehended how completely I was in his power.

"Take a seat, Craig," he said, speaking with a faint accent barely perceptible. "The second chair will be found the more comfortable. Now we can talk easily. May I offer you a cigarette?"

I accepted it more to exhibit my own coolness than from any desire to smoke, but without other response.

"I trust you have been fairly comfortable since coming on board the Sea Gull."

"As much so as a prisoner could naturally expect to be," I replied indifferently. "This vessel, then, is the Sea Gull?"

"At present—yes. The name is immaterial, so long as it sounds well and conforms to the manifest. However, just now the register reads Sea Gull, Henley, master; 850 tons, schooner rigged yacht."

"You are under steam?"

"Exactly—auxiliary steam power."

"In what trade?"

"Operated for pleasure exclusively," a slight tone of mockery in the soft voice. "A rather expensive luxury, of course, but available all the year around in this latitude."

"I failed to catch the captain's name—yours, I presume?"

He laughed, pausing to light another cigarette.

"Still, it is one you seem fairly familiar with—Henley, Philip Henley."

This statement of his identity, spoken calmly and smilingly, was a surprise.

"You see, Craig," he continued quietly, apparently comprehending my state of mind, "your little game is up. Not a bad plan originally—something of a criminal genius that fellow Neale—but he failed to count on the fact that I was very much alive and fully being defrauded of his rights. There is no necessity of my going into details, but Neale told me an apparently straight story and convinced me my part was a mere form. Later I learned different and promptly quit. I haven't sent in a line of report to my employers."

"What convinced you of the fraud?"

"A conversation with Mrs. Henley."

"Oh, the woman, hey?" his tone again sarcastic. "Good Lord, Craig, don't be a wooden headed fool. This girl is a mere adventuress."

"You claim still to be Henley?" I asked, stifling my indignation.

"Not only claim, but am. My identity is already firmly established in court. Lawyers have the final papers ready to file."

"You do not in any way resemble the photograph shown me of the man."

"A fake picture. We have known something of Neale's plans from the first."

"Is the woman on board?" I questioned. He hesitated just an instant.

"Yes."

"Will you have her brought here?" He walked across the cabin twice, turning the proposition over in his mind. Apparently concluding that the ordeal might as well be over with first as last, he opened the door and gave an order to Peter.

Then he returned to his seat at the desk. We both arose to our feet as she entered, glancing about her curiously at the rather strange surroundings, then stopping irresolutely, apparently recognizing neither of us. Suddenly the light of recognition leaped into her eyes and she took a quick step forward.

"Mr. Craig—you here? Why, I can hardly understand. Were you made prisoner also?"
"I suppose that to be my status, although I hardly know," I answered, yet unable to refrain from accepting the extended hand. "I presume you know this person?"

She swept my face with a swift, questioning glance and then looked beyond me at the man standing beside the desk.
"No, I do not," slowly. "I have no remembrance of ever seeing him before."

"Is that not rather strange," I asked, steeling myself to the task, "after asserting that he was your husband? He is the owner of this vessel—Philip Henley."

"You are not Philip Henley," she said firmly. "He is my husband."

The smile widened, revealing the cruel, white teeth.

"I expected heroics. It was hardly to be supposed that you would confess your fraud at once and—before your lover."

She shrank back, her hands still extended.

"My—my lover—"

"Now stop!" I broke in, every nerve tingling as I stepped between them. "Another insinuation like that and you will learn what I can do. You may be captain of this boat, but you are alone with us now, and I can kill you before you could utter a cry. I will if you dare insult her again."

He reeled back against the desk, although I do not think I touched him, and his hand sought an open drawer. I knew him instantly for a coward and gripped his wrist, hurling him from me half across the room. He gasped a bit, rubbing his bruised wrist, his eyes shifting to the closed door as though contemplating an alarm.

"There is no use going off at half cock, Craig!" he snarled. "I didn't

"Gordon Craig, do you mean?"

I turned to her, steeling myself to look into her appealing eyes.

"I have been honest with you from the beginning," I interrupted abruptly. "Now, if I discover that your statements are false, the inducements are all the other way. I am a soldier of fortune."

Henley laughed, the sound grating harshly on my nerves, yet I made no movement of protest as he stepped silently back to his desk. I was longer afraid of the fellow, even though he might have a weapon concealed in one of the drawers, for I knew I had drawn his fangs. The open avowal on my part was sufficient to convince one of his stripe that was concerned only with my own interests. His words confirmed my judgment.

"Well said, my man. Now we begin to understand each other. Of course I have the proofs. I would be a fool to sit in such a game without a winning hand. Sit down, both of you while we talk this over. There is a reason why the three of us should not be friends, provided you are sensible."

"But—but I am his wife," she panted to me indignantly. "Philip Henley's wife. I—I showed you our certificate." "A fake, a forgery," asserted I other roughly, before I could find voice. "You had it framed up right, if you had never run across me. Show me the paper."

"I cannot, for it is not here. I placed it in my valise back at that house. She stepped forward with hands held out toward me. "But you know—Gordon Craig, you know. I could not have forged that. I had not time; no information which would have led to such an act. You tell him so."

"I hardly think he will, madam," I turned the captain shortly, evidently feeling it better not to let me speak. "And there is no use going on with this any farther. Answer me a question or two, that is all. When did you first tell Craig you were Philip Henley's wife?"

I clinched my hands at the bewildered embarrassment in her eyes.

"It was after we came here, when I was frightened, and felt that I must confess the truth. I—I had begun to trust him."

"Oh, indeed, and you failed to tell him at first because you did not trust him."

"Partially that—yes. Although I do not think the name Henley was even mentioned during our first interview. I am sure I did not realize it was my husband's father who was dead unlater."

"Exactly; you picked up a strange man on the street, agreed to go off on a criminal mission with him, and now expect us to believe you perfectly innocent of any wrong intent."

"That will be enough," I interrupted, unable to remain quiet any longer.

"The motives of the woman and how we chanced to meet are no concern of yours. If you are Philip Henley, prove it, and let it go at that. I have told you plainly enough where I stand."

"Just as you say, Craig," affecting an easy good nature. "That is perfectly agreeable to me. However, as it makes no difference what the late Mrs. Henley thinks, we will dismiss her from the case and settle the affair quietly between ourselves. I have got a proposition which will interest you." He touched a button, and I heard the sharp tingle of a bell outside. Almost instantly the door in the cabin opened. "That you, Peters? Conduct the woman back to her stateroom, lock the door and bring me the key."

He bent forward, searching for something in a pigeonhole to his right. And I caught his eyes, touching my lips with my fingers, to signal silence, while an inclination of the head told her to go without resistance. The swift change of expression on her face proved her instant comprehension, as, without uttering a word of protest, she turned and disappeared. Peters returned with the key. Henley dropped it into his pocket.

"That will be all," he said. "You can go."

As the door closed again behind Peters, the fellow rose to his feet and held out his hand. "You are the kind I like, Craig," he said cordially. "At first I had my doubts about you and, no doubt, have been harsh. Did you see her face when you first sided in with me? She wilted completely. Well, that will make the rest easy. Sit down again, and I will explain what I want you for. The legal papers which absolutely establish my identity as Philip Henley are in the hands of lawyers who represent me at Carrollton. The case will not come up for adjudication for several weeks yet," speaking slowly and with careful choice of words, "but my contention as heir to the property is thoroughly established. It had to be, for, as you know, the judge's son had been away from this neighborhood for years, practically ever since boyhood. He was almost unknown to the local inhabitants, even to the servants. He was even reported as being dead. This state of affairs made identification the most important thing to be considered. Consequently all documents bearing directly on that point are at present out of my reach. You understand?"

"Yes; only you must have retained something to substantiate your word."

"Precisely. I was coming to that. I have letters from my father which should be sufficient. You have seen Judge Henley's writing?" and he handed me a half dozen missives. They were without envelopes, each beginning simply, "My Dear Son," relating principally to local conditions on the plantation, and occasionally expressing a desire for the wanderer to return and assume the burden of management. That they were in the crabbed and peculiar handwriting of the old judge was beyond all question, and the dates covered several years. I read them through carefully, puzzled by their contents.

"There are no envelopes?"

"No; I never keep them—why?"

"Only that no name is mentioned; they begin all alike. 'My Dear Son.'"

CHAPTER XII.

I Join the Sea Gull.

"Y"OU chance to be the very sort of man I need. The devil could not have sent me a better," he said, with some enthusiasm. "You are an American soldier, the best drilled men in the world for irregular service. You can understand that the longer I can keep those fellows down there fighting, the more I will sell. Good! that is part of my business. And the better they are drilled the longer they will keep it up. That is what I want you for—to help make that mob of rags into an army. You can do it, and I am willing to pay the price."

"I perceive your point," I said at last, facing him. "But what is there in it for me?"

"A good round sum," he replied. "More than you ever made before, I warrant, not excepting the promises

"Who is first mate—the German?" "Yes; Herman; a fine sailor. Was with the Hamburg people until he had a wreck. The creole Broussard is second, and two of them together could tame a cargo of wildcats."

I took his hand, feeling the sinewy grip of his lean, brown fingers, and turned to the door. The single lamp in the main cabin was turned low, only faintly illuminating the interior. In the quiet I could feel the movement of the vessel and realized there was some sea on, although the engines were being operated only at half speed. This seemed odd if speed was desirable, as I supposed it must be on a voyage of this nature. I was not in the least sleepy and sank down in the first chair to think, my eyes on the captain's door.

What Henley meant to do with the girl was problematical—I had not thought to ask—but he either intended putting her ashore in Honduras or else holding her prisoner on board until the Sea Gull returned north. Either contingency was bad enough, and the suspicion flashed suddenly across me that the final decision would depend on how kindly she might receive the attentions of the captain. Nor did I question the result, I had not known the lady long, but in that brief time our relations had been sufficiently intimate to yield me a good insight into

 "Only that no name is mentioned;
 they begin all alike. 'My Dear Son.'"
 "I never thought of that," he admitted, simulating surprise, "but can supplement by showing you this picture, taken three years ago at Mobile. Of course you will recognize myself, but may never have seen a photograph of Judge Henley."
 "I never have."
 "Well, that is his likeness, and there are those on board who will identify it. Does this satisfy you that I am what I claim to be?"
 In truth it did not, for I would have believed nothing in opposition to the positive statement of the woman that he was not Philip Henley. Ye under other conditions—divorced from what I knew—the letters would be conclusive. Were they really addressed to him or had he stolen them? If the latter, then how had he succeeded in getting his picture on the same platwith Judge Henley's? Aware that even the slightest hesitancy might awaken suspicion, I answered quickly.
 "It would seem to be unanswerable.
 What hurts my pride is to have been made such a fool of."
 "That's nothing, Craig. We have al-had that experience. I stand ready to give you a chance now on the winnin' side. There will be more money in it for us both. What do you say?"
 "I should prefer to know more about your proposition."
 "It has nothing whatever to do with the Henley matter. That is practically settled already, so you will not be further involved with the girl."
 "You would oblige me by leaving her name out of the discussion then," I interposed coldly.
 He chuckled, well satisfied with his diplomacy.
 "We cannot obliterate her entirely.
 Pretty enough to be useful, too, I imagine. If she can ever be brought to view this affair from the right angle."
 I gazed directly into his eyes, barely able to keep from throttling him.
 "Drop it," I said sternly. "The girl is to be left alone if I have any part in your scheme. Now I want to know what is expected of me. May I ask questions?"
 "Certainly. Fire away."
 "Where are we bound?"
 "Spanish Honduras," lazily, but spreading out a map and tapping it with his finger. "Puerto Cortez, if we can make that port safely; if not, then somewhere along the coast between there and Trupillo. There will be signals."
 I leaned forward, startled out of my self restraint.
 "Honduras! Good Lord! What are you—a filibuster?"
 "Hardly," with a short laugh. "That is too dangerous a job and not money enough in it. I prefer to do my revo-luting through others and cop the swag. That's the safe end of the game.
 It happens to be Honduras just now;
 I have been equally interested in other downtrodden countries. In truth, friend, I am a patriot for revenue only."
 "You mean you furnish arms?"
 "For a suitable consideration, yes.
 In strict confidence I will state that securely packed away in the hold of the Sea Gull, largely in boxes labeled machinery, are 20,000 rifles, six rapid those fellows down there fighting, the more I will sell. Good! that is part of my business. And the better they are drilled the longer they will keep it up. That is what I want you for—to help make that mob of rags into an army. You can do it, and I am willing to pay the price."

 "I perceive your point," I said at last, facing him. "But what is there in it for me?"
 "A good round sum," he replied.
 "More than you ever made before, I warrant, not excepting the promises made you in this Henley will case.
 We'll talk the details over later."
 "Who is responsible for my pay?"
 "See here, Craig, the case stands like this. The revolutionists down there asked me to find them a competent drill master, and they will pay royally.
 They've got the money, too, scads of it. There will be no trouble on that score. Besides, I need a reliable man ashore to look after shipments. We have to land our goods in a hurry, you understand, at night, without checking up. I can afford to hand you something pretty nice on the side to assure myself a square deal."
 "It looks good," I confessed, but still hesitating. "Only I shall have to have it in writing and more in detail."
 "We'll talk that over in the morning; it's late now. Take the third stateroom, starboard; it's all ready for you."
 "Then I am no longer to consider myself a prisoner on board?"
 "Certainly not. Practically, you are one of us."
 "And I have the freedom of the deck?"
 He smiled grimly, gazing intently at me.
 "That is safe enough, I reckon, even if I questioned your interest in this adventure. There must be ten miles of water already between us and the coast. There are no limits on your liberty, but I wouldn't advise your going forward at present, not until the men understand the situation. They're a hard lot."
 "Revolutionists?"
 "No; plain New Orleans wharf rats, the scouring of the seven seas."

girl was problematical—I had not thought to ask—but he either intended putting her ashore in Honduras or else holding her prisoner on board until the Sea Gull returned north. El-ther contingency was bad enough, and the suspicion flashed suddenly across me that the final decision would depend on how kindly she might receive the attentions of the captain. Nor did I question the result. I had not know-the lady long, but in that brief time our relations had been sufficiently intimate to yield me a good insight into her womanly character. There would be no yielding, no compromise.
 I felt my teeth lock, my hands clench in sudden anger.
 I may have remained there for a quarter of an hour, motionless, thinking over every incident. No one disturbed me. The captain was still in his stateroom, where once or twice I imagined I heard him pacing the floor.
 The steward had apparently retired for the night, although it was not late, as a glance at my watch proved. My eyes traced the doors on either side, ten altogether, each plainly numbered, and I opened the one assigned to me and glanced within. Except that it was more commodious and contained a washstand at one corner, it did not differ greatly from the other forward where I had been held prisoner.

ANECDOTES FROM FRANCE.

German Soldiers Express Desire for Peace.

A lieutenant and patrol of nine men of a Quebec battalion gave an object lesson on the western front recently, showing the value of careful scouting. The party went out into a haze lying in the low land between the enemy lines and our own, and at a point about 300 yards from a German trench discovered six Germans on outpost duty under the shade of some trees. The Quebecers stalked the party. They captured three and killed others. After bringing in the prisoners, the lieutenant, feeling certain that the enemy, having heard the sound of firing, would investigate, took out the patrol again and concealed his men near the outpost. A second party of Germans appeared shortly afterwards, and in the light that followed three of them were captured, one after sustaining severe wounds. Not one of our men was hit in this admirable bit of outpost warfare.

German soldiers at Lens fired the following into the Canadian lines by the use of an aerial dart:

"Dear Tommy: The German Tommy sends you hearty greetings from Lens. When will be there peace?
 Please reply."

That the rank and file of the enemy troops have a great longing for peace is confirmed by every prisoner captured. One of their chief grievances is the failure of their higher officers to take risks. Even company commanders frequently de-pute to under officer their duties while in the trenches and remain well back from the front. This is so different from the relations between our own officers and men that it is freshly impressed on the minds of the Germans on every occasion when there is hand-to-hand fighting.

GOOD BUTTER-MAKING RULES

Best Churning Temperature is 58 Degrees on Ordinary Thermometer—Care for Cream.

(Clemson College Bulletin.)

Cream is made up of little fat globules floating in milk. In making butter the fat globules are brought together into a mass and the milk is removed as buttermilk. These fat globules will stick better when they are just the right temperature than they will if either too warm or too cold. A good temperature for churning is 58 degrees on an ordinary thermometer. When the cream is the right sourness it churns better than when sweet or too sour. The cream should be kept at 50 degrees or lower till the day before churning. Then warm it up to 70 degrees, or room heat, which will bring about the souring by the next day.

When the barrel churn is used, allow gas to escape every few minutes at first. When the butter begins to come keep a close watch and stop churning when the butter granules are the size of wheat kernels. Draw off the buttermilk and wash in the churn repeatedly with cold water till the buttermilk is all removed. Then remove the butter from churn and work it with a paddle. Add an ounce of salt per pound of butter.

MANNER OF HANDLING SILAGE

When Time for Feeding Top Layer, Which Has Molded, Should Be Removed—Heap Top Level.

(Clemson College Bulletin.)

When the time comes for feeding silage the top layer, which will be found to be molded, should be removed. The molded part usually extends for several inches below the surface. At least two inches of silage should be fed each day in order to prevent the formation of the mold. The top of the silage should be kept level so as to expose the smallest surface possible to the air. Only enough silage for one feeding should be put out, as it soon dries out if not fed at once.

ROUGHAGE OF HIGH QUALITY

Average New York Cow Credited With $66.09 Yearly Income—Scrub Cows Responsible.

Success in dairying is based on the production of high quality roughage. The truth of this basic principle of dairy farm management finds support in estimates recently made by the New York State college of the average dairy cow's product in that state. The average New York cow is credited with only $66.09 total income yearly. The cost of maintaining her is estimated at $91.87 not including the cost of labor. The difference amounting to only $4.26 a cow, would give to the man who

LOSS OF FAT IN SKIM MILK

Farmer Using Separator Should Pay Close Attention to Matter—Chief Cause is Speed.

Every farmer who uses a separator to skim his milk should give close attention to see that he does not lose fat in the skim milk. A small percentage of fat going into the skim milk continuously means a great loss for the year.

If a cow gives 5,000 pounds of milk and four tenths of one per cent is lost, it would mean for the year a loss of about $8 per cow.

There may be many causes to produce such a loss. Probably the chief cause is the speed of the bowl. If a separator is turned too slowly the milk does not skim clean and fat goes over into the skim milk. Another cause might be the temperature of the milk. For close skimming milk should be 85 degrees or above. Still another cause is an unbalanced bowl. See that the separator gets plenty of oil when running and do not neglect it when it gets out of order.

MAKING IDEAL DAIRY RATION

Silo Solves Succulence Problem Best—Roots Should Be More Generally Fed to Cows.

It is very necessary that succulence be supplied if we hope to come anywhere near an ideal dairy ration. The silo solves this problem best. From all points of view silage is to be preferred. The second choice would be roots. These will be very satisfactory, either when fed alone or supplementary to the silage, and should be more generally fed than at present on all dairy farms. Lacking either of these, it will be important to secure similar effects through the grain ration with the aid of alfalfa or clover if available. In this connection oil meal is of great value because of its well-known laxative properties coupled with its high protein content.

BUILDING UP A DAIRY HERD

Care and Feed of Calves is of Great Importance—Select Best Marked Females.

Select the best marked female calves from the tested and most productive cows. Let the calf remain with the cow for eight to ten days or until the cow's milk is fit for human food. Feed sweet skim milk heated to blood heat; about one to two quarts may be given morning and evening. Have a clean tin feed bucket; disease and no end of germs may be found in dirty buckets. Feed every day and set out in the sun and air.

Feed sweet milk; it should always be fed warm; cold and sour milk will produce scours and diarrhea. After

WHAT ONTARIO FOLKS SAY.

Hamilton, Ont.—"This is to state that I have received great benefit from the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Some time ago I was run down and weak, suffered loss of appetite and was miserable. Four bottles of the 'Prescription' cured me up in fine shape; it did wonders for me and I can recommend it very highly to women who are ailing."—Miss MARIE MILLER, 127 Hess St., Hamilton, Ont.

Brantford, Ont.—"Some few years ago I got in a very much run-down condition. Was very weak; could not do anything; had no strength at all. I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription; I only took five bottles and it put me in splendid condition. I felt better than I had for years. Other members of my family have used this medicine and found it equally as beneficial. I can highly recommend it to weak women."—Mrs. A. GILMOUR, 71 Brighton Row, Brantford, Ont.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes women happy by making them healthy. There are no more crying spells. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well.

Like an open book, our faces tell the tale of health or disease. Hollow cheeks and sunken eyes, listless steps, sleepless nights—tell of wasting debilitating diseases some place in the body. It may be one place or another, the cause is generally traceable to a common source.

Get the "Prescription" to-day—either in liquid or tablet form—if you want to better your physical condition speedily.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Keep the body clean inside as well as outside.

FIGHT PLANT DISEASES

Campaign Planned Against Destructive Maladies.

Special Work Will Be Undertaken to Reduce Epidemics of Black Rust in Spring Wheat Areas—To Improve Storage Methods.

Destructive plant diseases which annually make heavy inroads into the crops of the country, are to be attacked with renewed energy by the United States department of agriculture. The extended work is made possible by appropriations carried in the food production bill which has just been enacted by congress.

Special work will be undertaken by the bureau of plant industry with a view to reduction of the destructive epidemics of black rust in the spring wheat areas and reduction of the injury from grain smut, especially in the central and western states. The bureau also will place in the field additional expert pathologists to advise country agents especially in the control of destructive diseases of potatoes, beans and truck crops, and will undertake special surveys to determine the causes of injury in regions suffering heavy losses from plant diseases in order that control measures may be undertaken promptly.

In addition to its work for the control of plant diseases, the bureau of cared for 20 cows a yearly wage of $85 which is less than the lowest wage paid to ordinary farm labor. Scrub cows are largely responsible, it is said, for this poor showing in New York and the college advises that they be weeded out if dairy herds are to be profitable to the farmer. These herds may be improved greatly by better breeding methods and by eliminating the culls. Behind the cows lies the farm on which they are kept. If the farm is not properly managed, the cows are laboring under a severe handicap.

FIRST FEED FOR YOUNG CALF

Skim Milk Is Given Soon as Practicable and Continued Until Animal Is Six Months Old.

At first the calf is fed whole milk, the quantity being gradually increased. Skim milk is substituted as soon as practicable and, if cheap, is continued until the calf is six months old. Ordinarily the maximum quantity of skim milk that can be fed economically is 20 pounds a day. When the calf is two weeks old, grain and bright, clean hay should be offered; the quantity fed should be increased as the calf's appetite demands.

COMMON CAUSES OF SCOURS

Overfeeding, Milk That Is Cold or Sour, Dirty Pails, Troughs or Stalls Are Blamed.

Indigestion is the cause of common scours. This generally occurs when the calf is from two weeks to a month old. Prevention is the best remedy. The common causes of indigestion are overfeeding, feeding milk that is cold or sour, feeding sweet milk one meal and sour the next, dirty pails, troughs or stalls.

UTENSILS NEEDED FOR TEST

Outfit Can Be Procured From Any Creamery Supply House for Comparatively Small Sum.

The utensils needed for the Babcock test are a Babcock tester, a few test bottles, a pipette, an acid measure, some sulphuric acid and a pair of dividers. All this can be procured from any creamery supply house for from $5 to $10, according to whether a four or an eight bottle tester is wanted.

the second week a little oatmeal and a small quantity of flaxseed oil meal after it is boiled may be added to the milk.

Tie a little bunch of bright, sweet clover hay in the pen every day for the calf to nibble. After the milk has been fed put a little meal in the calf's mouth. A little hay may also be given. By this method the calf will soon learn to eat meal and hay.

Whole oats and wheat bran may be fed in small quantities after the sixth week. All stock, young and old, thrive and keep in health when well fed and kindly treated.

CHECK GROWTH OF BACTERIA

Milk Fresh From Cow Should Be Chilled at Once to About Fifty Degrees Fahrenheit.

Cooling milk immediately after milking checks the growth of bacteria and thus prevents the milk from spoiling. Hence milk fresh from the cow should be chilled at once to about 50 degrees Fahrenheit and kept at that temperature until delivered.

SILAGE NECESSARY FOR COW

Thirty Pounds Per Day Is About Right —It Won't Hurt to Give Her All She Will Eat.

About 30 pounds of silage per day is required by the dairy cow, while a beef animal will consume one-third more, or possibly a still greater amount. It will not hurt a cow to feed her all that she will consume if the silage is good and is fed regularly.

LOCATE CAUSE OF LAMENESS

Many Make Mistake of Not Making Careful Examination, Simply Applying Some Liniment.

Cows go lame. Instead of making a careful examination to find out the cause, we use a lot of liniment and think we have done all that is required. After much suffering on the part of the innocent animal we find perhaps that the trouble was due to a nail or something else in the foot.

It pays to watch for and guard against such accidents to live stock.

In addition to its work for the control of plant diseases, the bureau of plant industry will seek to stimulate the conservation of food products by demonstrating proper methods of storing such crops as may be stored in common storage, by improving the methods of storage, and by demonstrating the drying of farm products.

PLAN FOR GOPHER TRAPPING

Most Effective "Set" for Trap Is in Main Runway—Twelve-Inch Iron Spoon Is Useful.

The most effective "set" for the gopher trap is in the main runway, A, and not in the lateral run, B, that leads to the surface mound. This necessitates the use of two traps per setting, one in each direction; but the results are so much more certain and quicker that the catch per trap per day is greater than where but one trap is set in a lateral run, where it is often filled full of dirt by the gopher. A common stiff-handled 12-inch iron spoon is of great assistance in finding the main run, and in properly placing the trap. This spoon had better be supplemented by a light, short-handled shovel, for the man that is afraid to dig will never get rid of his gophers.

Gopher Trapping.

The freshest mound should be selected and the probable direction of the main run determined by noting the angle of the dirt-plugged hole. The mounds are usually situated one or two feet distant from, and nearly at right angles to the main run.

SELECTION OF GARDEN SEED

Advisable to Do Work in Fall From Plants Known to Have Been Satisfactory in Every Way.

To get the best returns from the garden we must have good seed; and in order to get the best seed it is often advisable to do our selecting in the fall from plants that we know have been satisfactory in every way. There are great possibilities in plant breeding through seed selection for the gardener or farmer who will devote a little time to this work. Some money can be saved, too, by saving a portion at least of our own seeds at spare times during the summer and fall. Another advantage in home saving of seeds is that we can thereby be sure of planting nothing but perfectly fresh seeds in the spring, while if we buy, it is impossible to be sure that the seeds are good.

USE MUCH WOOL EMBROIDERED

Paris Designers Place Unusual Signs on Almost Every Kind of Material, Even Chiffon.

Since the simple silhouette is an established fact, an opportunity has been given women to spend their time and energy upon the charming details of their costumes. In America we have been so busily engaged changing out of skirts and the width of sleeve that we had no spare moments to spend upon the little hand touches, the pert finishings, and the hemstitch edges. These seemingly insignificant niceties are really important, as a writer in the New York Times.

Paris they realized that ages ago took advantage of the fact, sending each season creations to excite us because of their infinite attention to the little things that put their stamp of perfection upon the finished gown. Wool embroidery, the Parisian edict, shall be an important factor in trimming of winter frocks. They are drawing woolen threads through silk and satin, on serge and velvet, yes—even on chiffon. And the patterns? They are no longer effects of group of roses or a chain of dais stamped laboriously upon the material and then worked over in tiny, cloying stitches. The artist takes large-eyed needle and a strand of bright-colored wool and works out a sign directly upon the gown, direct upon the spot where it will live upon the whole creation has become possible.

Pockets to Go.

As to materials for the fall gown the manufacturers claim that, just designers for men have promised reduce the amount of material used by the elimination of the large pockets, so designers for women will make the wool suits narrower and plainer for the same reason.

The pocket will undoubtedly along with the other unnecessary pendents. The manufacturers making the cotton back with wadding for the same reason.

Straight Lines.

In skirts for general or sport wear the straight lines are usually employed says the Dry Goods Economist. Plaits are noted in some models, sometimes the entire skirt is plaited, sometimes plaits are used in cluster effect. Many novel ways of introducing plaits have been brought out.

Millinery Notes.

Black, rose and brown are three popular favorites, and one of the hats may be worn with almost every shade. Moire silk vies with velvet in pleasing the public, and it is so soft and pliable that it fits in very well with styles of the day.

As for shapes, take your choice. Broad brims and narrow ones, high crowns and square crowns, and crowns that are round as a full moon, all appear in hat land.

And it matters not at all which you wear. Only be sure that it is the spot of your face.

BIG DESIGNS IN CRETONNES

Tendency Is Toward Large Figures, Especially for Window Curtains and Chair Cushions.

There is, perhaps, no very distinctive thing about the new cretonnes and chintzes and printed linens—and, perhaps, that is just what gives them their characteristic charm. For among them can be found one to suit every sort of taste.

Perhaps the tendency is toward big designs—although there are charming small designs if you want them. But the big designs are more effective, it is safe to say, for window curtains and cushions in chairs—and nowadays yards and yards of cretonne are used for these purposes. Moreover, the bags that are made now are so huge that even large designs show well on them.

The bird has come to stay in cretonne, and he appears in more gorgeous plumage than ever this year. He is most often a parrot, perhaps because the parrot has such gaudy plumage by nature that unexaggerated it makes colorful cretonne. Sometimes he is some other sort of tropical bird, of gayly colored plumage. Occasionally he is an almost colorless bird of some sort—and in dull rose and gray-black he is quite as effective as the brilliant parrot.

Then, little figures, chiefly of Chinese and Japanese sort, appear on some of the new cretonnes. These are very attractive in some places, and are quite unattractive in others. In many of the smartest new bags they are used to distinct advantage. And sometimes they may be employed in hangings with very good effect.

HATS ARE OF MANY SHAPES

There Never Was a Time When There Was So Great a Variety as Is Found This Season.

There never was a time when hat shapes were so diversified as they are this season; in fact, there are so many varieties that it would be impossible for any type of woman to be hatted unbecomingly.

There are many shapes that tend to the Napoleon styles; novelty tricorns, models that show the influence of the Spanish and hats that are adaptations of the Breton.

The directoire and the marquis shapes come in for much attention, and shapes that are seemingly inspired by the Alpine. Poke mushrooms there are in plenty with their short backs and long fronts that coquettishly shade the eyes.

Then there's the hat with the irregular brim edge—sides that shoot out suddenly in points with the opposite brim much narrower and perhaps just describing a round edge. Then again the crowns are irregular—some show the four indentations that one associates with the soldier hat; then there is the Japanese crown that is highly peaked.

THE EYE.

THE HUMAN EYE is a wonderful instrument, but under the trying conditions of modern life it often fails to meet the demands put upon it, and serious trouble of all sorts results because we do not help out by getting glasses to supply Nature's defects.

Particularly at the time when children begin their school life, the new and difficult uses made of the eye often bring on eye strain and a host of resultant disorders.

The signs of beginning eye strain may vary in different cases. At first only a slight fatigue may be noticed after reading or sewing.

DO YOU NEED GLASSES The eyes may water easily or the eyeball may become bloodshot or the eyelids red. Some persons whose eyes are overtaxed show it by nervousness and others by drowsiness after the eyes have been used. Headaches of all sorts and even attacks of vertigo may be merely the symptoms of eye trouble.

The eye has a remarkable power, called the power of accommodation. When you look from a distant object to one nearby you notice that it takes a few seconds to focus the eye so that you can see it clearly. Little muscles are contracting and changing the shape of the eye to adjust it to the different distances somewhat as you change the focus of a camera according to the nearness of the object to be photographed. If the eye is abnormal in any respect these muscles have to work too hard, and, even though we may by this unconscious effort be able to see clearly, yet the strain is present. In such case we are seeing by a constant effort, while if glasses were provided to correct the defect of vision they would do this work and save us the strain.

A careful and thorough examination of the eyes should be made by a competent person. Many a miserable hour would be saved if this were done in time.

Because of defective eyesight a child may be dull, fretful, and backward in school, without anyone guessing the reason. An examination of the eyes reveals serious defects; these are corrected by proper glasses, and the effect is most marked. The child appears happier, makes good progress in his studies, and takes his rightful place in the school community.

Glasses or no glasses, there are some things that cannot be done with the eyes except at grave peril. Too little light strains the eyes, and so does too much. A direct glare right in the face is quite as bad as a room that is too dim to see properly. For reading, sewing, or other work which requires close and accurate vision the light should be clear and steady and should come from above and behind.

Earache is a common and distressing trouble in young children. It often occurs in connection with winter colds and in the course of measles and scarlet fever; it is due to an infection of the middle ear, the EARACHE poisonous germs being carried from the throat up the little passage called the Eustachian tube to the middle portion of the ear just inside the ear-drum. In other cases it occurs in children who have adenoids and large tonsils. In cases of earache which are severe and which may easily be neglected because the mother may not know the danger, the ear-drum may burst from the pressure of mucus inside it and the child is left with a running ear. This is often difficult to cure. In other cases the infection may spread to the cells or honeycomb of bone in the mastoid bone behind the ear and necessitate an operation. These bad results may frequently be prevented by a timely puncture of the drum, which at once gives relief and soon clears up the case. In an earache of any severity or where the pain lasts over a day or so, always call in a competent physician or an ear specialist, and give your child the best chance possible. In mild cases relief may be given by putting a few drops of warm olive oil in the ear and a hot water bottle outside.

VICTIM OF APPETITE.

Prospector Brings in Story of a Wolverine.

A prospector from the Atlin country in Northern British Columbia brings in a belated story of the capture of a wolverine which will bear telling even if the wolverine hide now decorates the den of a man who does not know anything about the matter, says The Vancouver Sun.

This prospector was doing a bit of trapping during the months of snow,

In this latter headress the hair is cut in a fringe across the forehead and loose curls over the ears. Artificial waves have completely gone out of favor and all our best hairdressers are trying to give natural effects, even when making use of the waving tong. Kiss curls over the ears are still in favor and straight fringes are worn by every second smart one one meets.

USE MUCH WOOL EMBROIDERY

Paris Designers Place Unusual Designs on Almost Every Kind of Material, Even Chiffon.

Since the simple silhouette is an established fact, an opportunity has been given women to spend their time and energy upon the charming details of their costumes. In America we have been so busily engaged changing the cut of skirts and the width of sleeves that we had no spare moments to spend upon the little hand touches, the expert finishings, and the hemstitched edges. These seemingly insignificant niceties are really important, says a writer in the New York Times. In Paris they realized that ages ago and took advantage of the fact, sending us each season creations to excite envy because of their infinite attention to the little things that put their stamp of perfection upon the finished gown.

Wool embroidery, the Parisian edict is, shall be an important factor in the trimming of winter frocks. They are drawing woolen threads through it on silk and satin, on serge and velvet, and—yes—even on chiffon. And the patterns? They are no longer effects of a group of roses or a chain of daisies stamped laboriously upon the material and then worked over in tiny, close lying stitches. The artist takes a large-eyed needle and a strand of bright-colored wool and works out a design directly upon the gown, directly upon the spot where it will live until the whole creation has become passe.

Pockets to Go.

As to materials for the fall gowns the manufacturers claim that, just as designers for men have promised to reduce the amount of material used by the elimination of the large pockets, so designers for women will make the wool suits narrower and plainer for the same reason.

The pocket will undoubtedly go along with the other unnecessary appendages. The manufacturers are making the cotton back with wool lining for the same reason.

Straight Lines.

In skirts for general or sport wear, the straight lines are usually employed, says the Dry Goods Economist. Plaits are noted in some models, sometimes the entire skirt is plaited, sometimes plaits are used in cluster effect. Many novel ways of introducing plaits have been brought out.

Millinery Notes.

Black, rose and brown are three popular favorites, and one of the three may be worn with almost every shade. Moire silk vies with velvet in pleasing the public, and it is so soft and pliable that it fits in very well with the styles of the day.

As for shapes, take your choice. Broad brims and narrow ones, high crowns and square crowns, and crowns that are round as a full moon, all appear in hat land.

And it matters not at all which one you wear. Only be sure that it suits the occasion of your fall season.

clates with the soldier hat; then there is the Japanese crown that is highly peaked.

PRODUCES SLIM LINES.

The large woman with good cause has always considered surplus weight a detriment to her figure. Lately she has begun to change her opinion and think of excess avoirdupois in the light of an asset instead of a liability, for the new system of designing provides her with gowns that give the figure of generous proportions slim lines.

This evening gown, designed according to that new scientific method, produces the much-desired effect of slender lines. It is a pretty model trimmed with beading and cut to convert all excess avoirdupois to an aid in forming good lines.

Filipino Embroidery Attractive.

As it becomes more and more difficult to obtain large supplies of French embroidery there is greater and greater chance of pushing embroidery from the Philippines. This embroidery is really very attractive. It is something like Japanese embroidery, but is superior, in the opinion of those who know both types well. More and more of it is found in the good shops and, therefore, it is an increasingly large feature in fashionable trousseaus and layettes. There have been suggestions that we might gather further inspiration from these Pacific Islands in the way of models for women's blouses.

As to Belts for Fall.

The belt may be arranged in a variety of ways on both afternoon and street dresses. For the long waisted style there is the wide, straight belt, the mash belt that loops and ties is favored for certain models, also a three yard long belt which encircles the waist and wraps once or twice about the hips, looping either front, back or side.

SOME CLEVER PLACE CARDS

Patriotic Idea Can Be Carried Out by Use of Bits of Khaki, Navy Wool and White Duck.

It is the successful hostess who recognizes the artistic and conversational possibility of the place card. As a means of stimulating table talk really novel place cards will do it as nothing else will, declares a writer in the Washington Post. Designing and making one's own place cards is good sport. Cunning little things can be made from bits of khaki, navy wool and white duck. Wee soldiers and sailors might be cut out of cardboard mounted on stands, and dressed in their respective "stuffs." A bit of glue is quite the only thing necessary for the dressing. The little hat, suit and even the leggings can be made realistic.

Other realistically patriotic cards can be made from plain white Bristol board by "tacking" on wee tin sabers, wooden guns, miniature tents and even a whole company of tin soldiers standing upright. Then, too, little silk flags might be draped on the cards with artistic effect.

Another charming thing to do with place cards is to press flowers and paste somewhere on the card.

"FUR SET" FILLS BIG NEED

All of the fair sex who look at huge fur coats, fur neck pieces and muffs and despair at their not being able to purchase such expensive articles, are in for a great surprise, and a pleasing one. The latest designed "fur pieces" are altogether just as pretty, perhaps not as warm, but very few women wear furs for the warmth they give, and their cost is negligible in comparison with the cost of the real thing. The set shown in the picture is made of Isaphan ribbon trimmed at the edges and with bands of fur running through. The stole, muff, hat, and even the purse are made of the same materials in the same style.

VICTIM OF APPETITE.

Prospector Brings in Story of a Wolverine.

A prospector from the Atlin country in Northern British Columbia brings in a belated story of the capture of a wolverine which will bear telling even if the wolverine hide now decorates the den of a man who does not know anything about the matter, says The Vancouver Sun.

This prospector was doing a bit of trapping during the months of snow, and was picking off considerable fur from various injudicious wild beasts until a wolverine drifted into the district and established himself on the trap-line of said trapper. This resulted in much solitary profanity by the trapper. The wolverine raided the traps regularly, always a few hours before the man could get along. The unfortunate trapper would find the trail of lynx, mink, and marten heading for his snares and would follow hopefully, only to discover a trampled and bloody patch of snow, a sprung trap, and the fore or hind leg of some fur-bearing animal in the jaws. The wolverine had dined.

This went on for a couple of weeks and finally the mid-season came along. At this time the trapper-pro prospector had to get out to civilization to attempt to arrange a mining deal he had in view. He locked the cabin, left the grub in the cupboard, and went. For the sake of healthful ventilation he left a small sliding opening by the wall, dimensions perhaps six or eight by ten inches.

Returning in two weeks, accompanied as ever by his faithful hound, he opened the cabin door and was more than shocked upon seeing the havoc therein. A side of bacon had been almost utterly destroyed, a sack of flour was torn open and half gone, sugar and bread existed no more.

The dog, after a preliminary sniff dashed snarling under the bunk in the corner and appeared with a snarling wolverine at his fighting end. Active co-operation between man and dog soon put the wolverine in the category of fair fur.

Resultant investigation produced a most interesting state of affairs. The wolverine had fallen victim to his own appetite. The animal, known in a denunciatory way to every trapper, is famed for its gluttony. It will eat until it nearly bursts. This animal when thin and hungry had followed the enticement of the appetizing trapper's cabin. Entering with little difficulty it had eaten so much that it swelled to such an extent that it could not get out of the opening through which it entered. Perforce it took up quarters under the bunk.

The skin, a good one and prime, brought the trapper fifteen dollars last spring, and now adorns the home of an eastern tourist.

POULTRY FAIR

A Poultry Fair will be held at Napanee on Wednesday and Thursday, the 28th and 29th days of November. A number of wholesale and retail produce merchants throughout the country have been notified to attend and have signified their willingness. It has been arranged that all poultry be taken to the Market Square where there will be scales in charge of reliable and competent weighmen to see that all weights are correct. The fair will last for the two days only and you are recommended to bring your poultry as early as possible as the buyers come here in some instances from quite a distance and will positively not remain over after the two days. Dated at Napanee this 13th day of November, A.D., 1917.

146th MAN KILLED.
Deeply regret to inform you that Pte. Leary, infantry, previously reported missing, believed killed, now officially reported killed in action on August 19th," says the director of records. The deceased soldier is survived by his father and mother and two brothers, Benjamin, James and Mary, and one sister, Mrs. George Farmer, all of Napanee. His wife and a child live at Verona. Deceased was born at Napanee twenty-five years ago. He signed up with the 146th Battalion, and went overseas and was in the trenches some time. He leaves a large circle of friends.

Christmas Boxes For Our Boys.
The boxes which were to be purchased from the proceeds of the Halvén Festival given by the N.C.I. in November 1st, were all packed and sent last Friday. The boxes were sent to boys who had enlisted from the N.C.I. and are known to the pupils who are attending. Some went to boys in England but the majority to those in France. Fifteen boxes were sent. Each was packed by a pupil of the N.C.I. Two dollars were allowed for each box. The class wishes to thank the Napanee Branch of the Red Cross and the Daughters of the Empire for the ten pairs of socks for the boxes. A pair was put in each box. Cards of Greeting are being sent to the boys, although they attended the Colliate are not well known to the present pupils.

"The Whip" at Wonderland on Monday Night.

When "The Whip" which is to be screened at Wonderland Monday night was first shown privately in New York City to a little group of leading film men, the verdict was unanimous that here was a wonderful picture. It has everything that a motion picture should have—it has snap, dash, fire, romance, youth, thrills, excitement, big scenes and splendid actors. It has been superbly directed and the photography is perfect. This opinion is being echoed by the hundreds of thousands of people in all parts of the country who are seeing this memorable production. They are being immensely entertained by the consistently intense and wholly pleasing story; they are being amazed by the magnitude and immensity of the production of the big scenes; they are being thrilled by the exciting train wreck and the automobile wreck, and the exciting horse races at Saratoga; and they are leaving the theatre after seeing "The Whip" declaring it to be the really great photoplay event of the year.

Everything must go if price will sell it, at PAUL'S Book Store.

The big pig is British Imports of Bacon. The little pig is Canada's Experts of Bacon. Even if Canadian hog raisers made the little pig grow twenty times it would no more than feed Britain, without counting our allies. Canada cannot over-produce for years to come. Raise more hogs.
